EPISCOPAL PLAN TO BAR MARRIAGE OF DIVORCED FAILS

Proposed Amendment to Canon Law Placed in Abeyance for Three Years by Failure of Clerical and Lay Members to Concur.

House of Deputies in Convention Here Votes, Clerical Members 40 to 24, for Change; Lay Members Against, 32 to 29.

Socialist Pastor in Fiery Address Against Amendment, Which Had Been Recommended by a Joint Legislative Commission.

The proposal that the Protestant Episcopal Church should forbid its ministers to solemnize marriages in which one party is divorced from a living husband or wife, was placed in abeyance for another three years by the failure of the clerical and lay members of the denomination's House of Deputies to concur in their vote on the question, at today's session of the triennial Episcopal convention at Moolah Temple.

The innovation was embodied in a proposed amendment to the canon law, which was recommended by a joint commission of legislation, composed of five Bishops, five presbyters and five laymen at a meeting last November in New York. In the balloting on the amendment, the line between the clerical and lay delegates was clear cut, the clerical delegates voting in favor of the amendment by 40½ ayes against 24¾ noes, and the lay members voting against it by 32¾ noes to 29 ayes. Eight clerical and six lay delegations were equally divided on the question, and were, therefore, not counted in the voting.

What Action Means.

Under the parliamentary regulations governing the convention, no law can be submitted to the House of Bishops by the House of Deputies unless both divisions of the latter, lay and clerical, concur in their vote upon it. On this account the question of the remarriage of divorced persons will not come before the Bishops at all during this session, and for the next three years, or until the next convention, the present canon law of the church will operate, to the effect that the innocent party in a divorce may, after due investigation, be remarried at the discretion of an Episcopalian minister.

The fractions in the ballots are due to the fact that in addition to the diocesan districts, represented each by four clerical and four lay deputies, there are also missionary districts, each of which is entitled to one-fourth of a vote.

The deadlock in the House of Deputies did not come until after a spirited debate of two and a half hours, in which the clerical speakers almost uniformly favored the amendment and the lay members opposed it.

An exception was the Rev. John Howard Mellish of Brooklyn, whose fiery adddress against the amendment was credited with swaying many votes. He declared himself a Socialist, and turning to the New York delegation, which was ardent in its support of the amendment, he said:

"I should votoe with you gentlemen from New York if this were merely a question of legislating for the rich. But I wish to speak from the point of view of the poor man and the poor woman. To illustrate my meaning, I will tell a story. Some years ago, in the mountain districts, there was a poor woman whose husband, after treating her cruelly, deserted her, leaving her four children to support. Afterwards another man took her and the children under his protection, and made a good living for them.

"Some time later the woman was converted, and took her dilemma to a Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, now dead. After he had heard her story, he himself gave her $10 to get a divorce from her husband, and when this had been done, he himself performed the ceremony which married her to the other man."

The speaker said there were many instances of women with children abandoned by their husbands who would be drive nto extremities for a livelihood unless they could remarry. "It would be well," he added sarcastically, "for us to draw our robes about us and shift the responsibility to clergymen of other denominations. But such action," he continued earnestly, "would conflict with the fundamental tenets of Christianity."

The proposed amendment was to Subsection III of the church canon, and read as follows: "No marriage shall be solemnized in this church between parties either of whom has a husband or wife still living, who has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

The Rev. Robert Talbot of Washington, D. C., declared he was in favor of the amendment as a protection for the clergy, many of whom, he said, have strong scruples against the remarriage of divorced persons, but still feel obligated, under the present canon law, to perform such ceremonies. It would be less embarrassing to them, he said, if they could refer such applicants to a law of the church forbidding them to serve.

FREER USE OF POTATOES IN BREAD MAKING ADVOCATED

Department of Agriculture Finds They Improve Keeping Qualities and Lessen Cost of Product.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—More general use of potatoes in making bread is recomended by the baking specialists of the Department of Agriculture. Bread containing boiled or mashed potatoes is nutritious, remains fresh longer than ordinary bread.

The department believes that in localities where there is a surplus of potatoes, or where they are cheaper, much economy can be practiced at this time by reason of the high price of wheat flour.

Potato bread as known in Europe usually is made with potato flour, which is not available in the United States. In their experiments the Government experts baked excellent bread with three pounds of potato and two and a half pounds of flour.

PARDON GIVEN ON CONDITION THAT MAN JOIN THE GUARD

Arkansas Governor Says Action Is at Request of Father of Girl Who Caused Conviction.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 14.—Gov. George W. Hays today pardoned Albert James, on condition that he join the Arkansas National Guard.

James had served only a short part of a two years' sentence for an offense against a young girl. A statement by the Governor said the girl's father had asked him to pardon James if the man would enlist.

ROLLER SKATING BEARS FOR ZOO

Pair to Entertain Public if They Show Well in Rehearsals.

Two full-grown black bears, donated by Samuel Haas of 5186 Cabanne avenue, were added to the Forest Park Zoo collection yesterday. They are trained bears, which were exhibited last week at the St. Louis Agricultural Fair at Maxwelton Park.

George Dieckman, president of the Zoological Society, has been assured that the bears are proficient roller skaters. If rehearsals show that they can skate well, a platform will be built for them at the Zoo and they will have an opportunity to show the public what they can do on rollers.

SUBMARINE SEEN PURSUING LINER 200 MILES AT SEA

Persons on Freighter Say They Witnessed Chase of Danish Liner Hellig Olav.

MANY AMERICANS ABOARD

Agents Try to Reach Her by Wireless—Other Vessels Clear From U. S. Ports.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—When the White Star freighter Bovic sighted an eastward bound submarine in the Atlantic yesterday morning she was apparently in pursuit of a Danish passenger ship, the Heilig Olav, according to persons on the deck of the Bovic, which arrived here today.

The nationality of the submarine was not identified. The Bovic, in fear of an attack because of being a freight ship, put on full speed and headed directly west. At the time she passed out of the sight of the other two vessels, the Danish boat still seemed to be endeavoring to escape from the submarine. The weather was clear and the Heilig Olav was between two and three miles distant at the moment she was first observed, with the submarine about one mile to the Dane's stern. This was about 3:30 a. m., when the Bovic was approximately 200 miles east of New York.

Many Americans on Board.

The Heilig Olav left here Thursday for Copenhagen and other Scandinavian ports, carrying 36 passengers in the first cabin, 37 in the second cabin and steerage passengers. Many of those in the cabins are Americans.

At the time she was sighted by the Bovic the Dane was flying no flag but her identity was distinguished by her name and the Danish flag painted on her side.

Representatives of the Scandinavian-American Line said here today that the Heilig Olav carried no contraband and that they did not believe her captain would undertake to escape from a submarine. The line has sent a wireless message to the ship asking for an account of the circumstances.

The Bovic reached port with a gun mounted on her stern.

The largest fleet of steamships that has left this port since the submarine raid off Nantucket last Sunday is due to sail today, while United States destroyers are hunting along the North Atlantic Coast for a secret base for German submarines.

A southwest gale is sweeping the coast. Incoming and outgoing ships pursue zigzag courses far off their usual routes to elude the U-53.

Many Liners to Sail.

Among the liners ready to leave here today are the St. Louis of the American Line for Liverpool, with a fair complement of passengers, the French liner Espagne for Bordeaux, the liner Stockholm for Gothenberg, the Re D'Italia, for Genoa, and the Anchor Liner Cameronia, for Halifax.

In addition to these, 26 other steamships have cleared for departure today. Thirteen steamers are due here today from European or African ports.

The latest of the Trans-Atlantic liners to arrive was the White Star steamer Cedric, which came in last night bringing one passenger from Liverpool. The Cedric received a wireless message at 2 o'clock last Monday morning telling of the activities of the U-53. Immediately all lights were extinguished, a zigzag course was followed and the cannon on her deck was manned, but no submarine was sighted.

MAN TAKES ACID AND DIES IN O'FALLON PARK

Bill in Pocket Bore Name of Gus Fiebeck, Who Is Listed in Directory as a "Helper."

Parkkeeper Henry R. Stocke, at 10 o'clock this morning, saw a man, reeling along the north side of the lake, near the boathouse, in O'Fallon Park. He fell before Stocke reached him, dying in a few moments. An empty bottle that had contained carbolic acid lay several feet away.

In his pocket was found a receipt book in the name of August Fiebeck, containing notations of the Lafayette Lodge No. 10, Order of Mutual Protection, and a bill made out to Gus Fiebeck by H. E. Klosterman, a druggist, 2700 St. Louis avenue, for medicine purchased in September. The tailor's mark in the coat was the initials, "G. F."

Klosterman told the police he knew a man named August Fiebeck, who used to live at 2619 Jefferson avenue, and who recently moved to the 2200 block on North Market street. The city directory gives an August Fiebeck of the Jefferson avenue address as a "helper." The body was that of a man about 35 years old.

TALKED POLITICS WITH A PUNCH

Member of Board of Education Sends Other Fellow to Hospital.

Robert Albrecht, 53, of 3650 Cook avenue, went to the city dispensary last night with scalp wounds and a cut face. He said he talked politics at Alderman Gus Bauer's saloon, 1315 Market street, with Charles J. Lammert, member of the Board of Education and secretary of the Painters' District Council, and Lammert gave him a beating. He refused to prosecute and no arrest was made.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA PROTEST AMERICAN CONTRACTS IN CHINA

Latter Claims Prior Rights for Building Railroad—Former Wants to Reconstruct Grand Canal.

PEKING, Oct. 14.—Japan and Russia entered protests today against concessions for railway and canal construction in China which have been granted to Americans.

Prince Nicholas Koudacheff, Russian minister to China, lodged a protest at the Chinese Foreign Office against the proposed American railroad from Feng-Cheng, Shansi Province, to Lanchow-Fu, in Kansu Province, alleging the Chinese Minister in Petrograd promised verbally 13 years ago that Russia should have the privilege of building railways in the vicinity of Mongolia. The disputed line was to run for a distance of approximately 400 miles. The agreement entered into between the Siems-Carey Co. of St. Paul with the Chinese Government empowers the American company to construct equal mileage elsewhere if the protest holds.

Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, the Japanese Minister to China, protested to the Chinese Foreign Office against this Government's agreement with American contractors for the reconstruction of 200 miles of the Grand Canal in Shantung Province. The Japanese claim, by reason of their conquest of Shantung, all the rights heretofore held by Germany in the development of that Chinense province. The Chinese Government contends that Germany must be defeated before such a claim will hold good. The dispute involved the Siems-Carey agreement providing for the construction of the northern half of the Grand Canal.

HARVARD MAN, AVIATOR FOR ALLIES, WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Norman Prince, Who Quit College to Enlist, Suffers Fracture of Both Legs—Had Won Honors.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Norman Prince of Boston, Sergeant-Major in the Franco-American Aviation Corps, who was decorated for distinguished service last week, has been wounded. Both Prince's legs are broken, but he is reported to be in no danger of death.

Norman Prince is a Harvard graduate who gave up a law practice in Chicago to volunteer for service with the allies. He was decorated in October, 1915, for destroying a German warplane. His machine was shot down in an aerial battle over Verdun last June, but he escaped without injury and was reported recently to have brought down two aeroplanes in Alsace.

Two Americans in the Franco-American flying corps have been killed recently. Corporal Victor Chapman of New York met death in an air fight with a German on the Verdun front June 24, and three months later Kiffin Yates Rockwell of North Carolina also was killed while fighting a German aircraft on the western front.

TWELVE 16-INCH GUNS FOR NEW AMERICAN BATTLESHIPS

Navy Board Working on Problem to Increase Size of War Craft, Probably to 38,000 Tons.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Navy officials anticipate that American battleships authorized next year will be built to carry main batteries of 12 16-inch rifles as against the eight 16-inch guns to be put on the ships for which bids will be opened Oct. 25.

Members of the general board, which is considering the characteristics for the next battle craft to be designed are said to be in favor of radically increasing the size of new battleships in order that the 50-per-cent increase in gun power may be attained. To carry 12 16-inch rifles it is roughly estimated that the ships would require a displacement of probably 38,000 tons, as against the 32,000 tonnage of the four ships to be laid down next year.

The first of the larger ships will not be laid down in all probability before 1918.

PENNSYLVANIANS VISIT WILSON

Delegation to Hear President Discuss Politics in Their State.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 14.—President Wilson planned to discuss political conditions, particularly in Pennsylvania, in a speech to be delivered late this afternoon before a delegation coming here to celebrate Pennsylvania day at Shadow Lawn.

The visiting delegation was expected on eight special trains, accompanied by seven bands. A. Mitchell Palmer, National Committeeman from Pennsylvania, who arrived last night, said 4000 persons from his State would be here.

NO CAR PLATFORM TALKS BY T. R.

Colonel Also Will Not Extend Announced Western Schedule.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—William R. Willcox, chairman of the Republican National Committee, announced last night that Col. Roosevelt would not make car platform speeches on his Western trip, and that he would speak in no states other than those already on the schedule.

Two or three short speeches will be made in Kentucky at the request of A. T. Hert, in charge of Western headquarters, it was stated.

SLEEPS IN BATH—BECOMES ILL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Strenuous golf may result in the death of Samuel B. Thompson, a New York cotton broker, who is critically ill at his home at Fanwood, near Plainfield, N. J.

Thompson passed Sunday on the links of the Westfield Golf Club. When he returned home he was extremely fatigued and filled the bath tub, stepped in and in a few minutes was fast asleep. Three hours later he awoke, the water had turned cold and he was seriously ill.

NEW ARREST IN HUNT FOR SLAYER OF KIDNAPED BOY

Man Said to Have Been Seen With Child After His Disappearance Is Held.

FOUR PRISONERS FREED

Poolroom Owner Who Quarreled With Father of Alphonse Magarian Still in Custody.

Jim Ali, 32 years old, of 1400 Walnut street, East St. Louis, was arrested there this afternoon to be held pending investigation of the murder of 3-year-old Alphonse Magarian, whose headless body was found on the East St. Louis city dump yesterday morning. The boy's father, A. D. Magarian, wealthy Armenian baker, had offered a reward of $2000 for the recovery of the child.

Ali was arrested on information that he was seen with the boy after the disappearance of the child from his home at 4:55 p. m. Oct. 4. Policemen who searched his room found a stained dagger between the mattress and the springs of his bed. In the room they also found a piece of rope which will be compared with the rope tied around the boy's body.

At the police station Ali gave a name which the police listed as "Ali Huckey." He is said to be a Turk. A Post-Dispatch reporter could not see Ali for a statement.

The police this morning released four of the five persons arrested yesterday in the investigation of the crime. The only person remaining in custody prior to Jim Ali's arrest was Zacker Bogosian, Armenian poolroom proprietor, the first man arrested after the discovery of the boy's body.

Bogosian has made no formal statement, but he has repeatedly told the police he knows nothing of the crime.

A Coroner's jury impaneled yesterday afternoon decided to postpone the inquest hearing pending further police investigation.

A rumor last night reached the police that an automobile without lights or a license tag stopped at or near the rooming place of Bogosian, at 1536 Kansas avenue, Sunday night. This has not been verified.

No analysis of stains of an eight-inch dagger found in Bogosian's room yesterday has been made. Comparison of the rope tied about the boy's body and a piece of rope found in a yard next door to Bogosians' rooming place showed they weer not the same.

Quarrel Is Recalled.

One reason assigned for holding Bogosian is that while he was a tenant of property owned by Magarian about a month ago he is alleged to have said to Mrs. Magarian: "You would better watch those boys of yours. Lots of people know you are rich and somebody might kidnap one of the boys and hold him for ransom."

Bogosian quarreled with Magarian, about three weeks ago, when Magarian ordered him to vacate his property. The principal cause of the quarrel, according to Magarian, was that Bogosian owed $40 rent.

Magarian alleges that in the heat of argument Bogosian said: "I'll fix you. I'll get even with you yet."

HAS BRITISH NATIONAL AIR PLAYED IN A GERMAN SALOON

Scotchman Thrown Out Second Time After Music by Teuton Band Is Recognized.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Strains of "God Save the King," played by a German band in a German saloon last night, gave pleasure to Sandy McTavish, a Scotchman from Canada, if to no one else in the crowd. He had hired the band in revenge for having previously been ejected from the saloon.

When McTavish first dropped in to the saloon, which is on South Clark street, some Germans were toasting Capt. Hans Rose of the submarine U-53.

"My name's McTavish—Sandy McTavish—Wee Sandy they call me, and I'll give ye a toast," he shouted. "Here's to King George!"

It took five Germans and the porter to put Sandy out. Two hours later he was back with the little German street band, and led it into the saloon. The musicians played the British National air four times before the Germans recognized it. After that it was the street again for Sandy, together with his band.

ROADS TO TAKE UP 8-HOUR DAY

Means of Meeting Requirements to Be Discussed at Denver Meeting.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 14.—Means of meeting the requirements of the Adamson eight-hour law are to be considered at a meeting of the American Railway Association here Nov. 17. Local railroad officials received word today that a number of executives and managers who participated in the recent conferences with President Wilson and representatives of the railroad brotherhoods preceding the enactment of the Adamson bill would be here.

Proposed methods of meeting the extra expenses and its distribution are expected to be discussed at that time.

Fire Destroys Allies' Tent Cloth.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Fire of mysterious cause today destroyed the large plant of the Price Fireproofing Co., with a loss of probably $200,000. Tent cloth for the entente allies being waterproofed was stored in large quantities, much of it ready for shipment.

Emergency Still Exists for Troops on Border, Wi son Says

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Oct. 14.

PRESIDENT WILSON, in a letter to Gov. Whitman of New York, sent Oct. 9 and made public here today, declared that the emergency which caused the sending of the militia to the Mexican border "unhappily still exists." He added, however, that he believed conditions in Northern Mexico were improving and that in the near future "it probably will be possible to do more than has been done to relieve the embarrassments under which organized militia regiments have necessarily suffered."

President Wilson wrote to Gov. Whitman in answer to a letter from the New York executive regarding the New York militia organizations on the border. The President told Whitman that it was impossible to set a date on which the remaining New York regiments there could be released.

The President's letter follows:

"My Dear Governor Whitman—I have received your letter of Sept. 20 and have taken up with the Secretary of War the situation as it affects the presence of New York troops on the border. From the beginning of the difficulty which necessitated the call for the militia I have been deeply sensitive of the inconvenience caused to the members of these citizen military organizations by their separation from their families and from their ordinary business engagements and pursuits.

"In order to minimize these sacrifices the War Department is sending to the border from time to time militia which have not participated in the service there, and as each fresh contingent goes to the border Gen. Funston selects for return to their home stations and mustering out such units as in his judgment can best be spared. This policy will distribute this duty over as wide an area as possible and make its burden fall as equally as is practicable upon the organized militia forces. It has already resulted in the return of a number of New York organizations. The Fourteenth and Seventy-first Infantry and the First Brigade Headquarters are at present in their State armories preparing to muster out. The Third Infantry in the State mobilization is going to muster out, the Second Infantry is preparing en route from the border to the State mobilization camp also for muster out. The first ambulance company and the First Regiment of Field Artillery have been designated to return from the border to their State mobilization camps for muster out and the First Aero Company was not sent to the border, but mustered out at Mineola, N. Y. Thus a substantial number of New York contingents either have been or are in course of being released from the Federal service at this time and as other forces are sent to the border, it may well be that Gen. Funston will find it possible to afford our New York militia even further relief.

"The emergency which led to the call of the militia, was as defined in my call of June 18, the possibility of aggression from Mexico and the protection of our frontier. The emergency still unhappily exists, and I am advised by the military authorities that the withdrawal of the militia at any time from the date of its original call up to and including the present, would in all human likelihood have been followed by fresh agrressions upon the lines and property of the people of the United States.

"The militia have therefore been used and are being used to repel invasion and are rendering service of the highest quality and most urgently needed character of their country.

"It would, of course, be impossible to set a date at which the release of the remaining New York units can with certainty be accomplished. I am happy, however, to believe that the condition in Northern Mexico is improving and that in the near future we will be able to do even more than has been done to relieve the embarrassments under which these organized militia regiments have necessarily suffered.

"I share your admiration, my dear Governor for the spirit in which these men have served and are serving their country, and would be very sorry to have it supposed that their retention on the border is for any mere purpose of completion of their military training or any less commanding purpose than the preservation of our frontier from aggression.

"Very truly yours,

"WOODROW WILSON."

CASE GROWING OUT OF WHIPPING BOY PUT OFF

Parents of Caseyville Youth Accused of Disturbing Peace of School Principal.

Eighteen pupils of the Caseyville public school were in Justice Adler's court at Belleville this morning to testify in the peace disturbance case brought by William H. Creed, principal of the Caseyville schools, against Mr. and Mrs Mathew Lutz, parents of a 13-year-old boy pupil, who was whipped by Creed a few days ago, and sent home, but the case was continued to next Saturday morning at the request of the defendants.

The trouble, according to Mr. and Mrs Lutz, dates back a year, when Creed gave the boy a whipping. Lutz went to a meeting of the Board of Education at Creed's home and complained about it. Creed called him a liar and Lutz struck at him, but landed instead on a board member, who was put down and out, and had to have a doctor's attention.

A few days ago the boy was given another whipping. Creed says it was because he used bad language. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz say it was because the boy stepped out of line. They say Creed shook him and slapped him and took him to a private room and flogged him and then gave him his books and sent him home. Mrs. Lutz went to see Creed and she says that after the teachers had borne out the boy's statements, Creed flew into a rage. Creed says Mrs. Lutz gave him a tongue-lashing. Next day Lutz went to see him and Creed ordered him away.

Boys who went to Belleville to testify said that the Lutz lad used such language as most boys use and that he was a "regular boy."

Saratoga to Be Flagship.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 14.—The cruiser Saratoga, which was formerly the New York and was flagship of Admiral Sampson during the Spanish-American war, will be placed in commission as flagship of the Pacific fleet when extensive repairs are completed.

WOMEN FOR WILSON, VICE PRESIDENT SAYS

Predicts Missouri, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Kansas Will Go Democratic.

Thomas R. Marshall, Vice President of the United States, told a Post-Dispatch reporter, while having his hair clipped at the Jefferson Hotel this morning, that, in his opinion, Missouri, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Kansas and Kentucky would go solidly Democratic at the November election, and that, in all the states where women can vote, there would be overpowering Democratic victory, because women are for peace.

President Wilson, he said, had proved himself one of the greatest statesmen of the ages because he had kept the country out of war when certain persons were clamoring for war.

"Mr. Hughes," the Vice President said, "is a typical candiate for office, who is evidently going about the country with the intention of not making any enemies, making speeches that are nice, sweet and flabby and will not win or lose a vote. But the American people like a man who is virile, who announces his position and stands by his guns and who will march to victory because of the stand which he takes."

Concerning the Adamson law, he said it was the general consensus of opinion that men who work about dangerous machinery should not work more than eight hours a day. He thinks the eight-hour law will be the settlement of the labor question to a great extent.

The Vice President stopped here on his way to Paducah, Ky., where he is to speak. He was accompanied by Mrs. Marshall. The hotel was crowded and the suite he has always occupied had been taken, but the clerk arranged it so that he could have his regular suite.

Gov. Major and Roger Sullivan also were at the Jefferson today. Sullivan, who formerly was Democratic national committeeman for Illinois, is making campaign speeches in Illinois this week.

Sullivan is urging the voters "to forget their little differences of the past" and declaring that at least 60 per cent of the woman's vote of Illinois will go for Wilson and Dunne.

ALLIES' LOSSES ON SOMME 1,000,000, GERMAN ESTIMATE

Military Critic of the Overseas News Agency Says This Number Were in British and French Divisions Virtually Annihilated

Russian Casualties for the Period From June 1 to Oct. 2 Also Are Placed at About 1,000,000.

Ninety Fresh Divisions Alleged to Have Been Depleted in Fighting on the Western Front.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—By wireless to Sayville.—British and French divisions with a total of more than 1,000,000 men have been virtually annihilated in the Somme battle, says the military critic of the Overseas News Agency.

According to figures given by the news agency, the Russian losses from June 1 to Oct. 2 were about 1,000,000 men.

The news agency's military critic writes:

"The heavy sacrifices made by the British and French for the recapture of each square yard on the Somme is proved by the fact that in three and one-half months about 90 fresh divisions were virtually annihilated, so that it was necessary to withdraw them forever. (Ninety divisions represents a total of considerably more than 1,000,000 men. There are about 12,000 men in a French division and 19,000 in a British division.)

"These divisions disappeared completely from battle. Fifty-five divisions in consequence of their great losses, were able to engage in combat only twice, 15 divisions three times and only one was able to engage in combat four times. Four divisions had suffered so severely after their second engagement that it was necessary to send them to quiet sectors, but on critical days they were again thrown in."

"A Russian official at Kiev, according to a Swiss paper, numbers the Russian casualties from June 1 to Oct. 2 at 78,000 officers and 922,500 of other ranks, or 1,000,000 in round figures. These gigantic figures are comprehensible only if the great Russian losses before separate sectors of our front are considered. Thus the army group of Gen. von Linsingen, which holds one-sixth of the eastern front, inflicted losses in the month of September which are calculated by a responsible authority at 62,000 to 68,000. These figures probably are below the actual losses. Corresponding reports are given from the army sector of Gen. von Boehm-Ermolli by a war correspondent. There it was ascertained that the Siberian corps, which are the best in the Russian army, were simply annihilated. Among the prisoners from one corps, which was still call'ed Siberian, 75 per cent were Southern Russians and 25 per cent Tartars, Jews or others. Some noncommissioned officers declared that nearly all the Siberian regiments had lost not only their active strength but their reserves.

GERMANS MAKE GAIN AND LOSE IT SOUTH OF SOMME

Take Part of Ablaincourt in Strong Attack, but Are Driven Out.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The Germans delivered a strong attack last night on Ablaincourt, south of the River Somme, and reoccupied part of the village, as well as trenches northeast of it, it was officially announced here today. The French immediately launched a counter-attack and won back all the ground which had been lost.

North of the Somme the French made progress on Malassise Ridge north of Bouchavesnes.

Berlin Says 1600 of Troops on French Transport Gallia Were Drowned.

BERLIN, via London, Oct. 14.—The small steamer Rigel, built as a submarine destroyer, was sunk in the Mediterranean on Oct. 2 by two torpadoes fired by a German submarine, it was officially announced here today.

A German submarine on Oct. 4, the Admiralty statement adds, sank the French auxiliary cruiser Gallia. Of the Servian and French troops on board bound for Saloniki about 1000 were drowned.

The sinking of the Gallia was reported from Paris Oct. 9. She was a 15,000-ton vessel, 574 feet long. Of 2000 French and Servian troops on board, some 1300 men were reported to have been picked up by a French cruiser and landed on the southern coast of Sardinia.

SOMME PRESSURE FAILS TO EXHAUST ARMY, BERLIN SAYS

England's Attempt to Wear Out Germans a Failure, Military Critics Declares.

MORALE IS NOT BROKEN

Ability to Assume Offensive on Other Fronts Uplifts Men, Writer Asserts.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—(By wireless to Sayville.)—In answer to the views of Gens. Joffre and Haig as to the results of the Anglo-French offensive on the Somme, and also in reviewing the situation on other fronts, the military critic of the Overseas News Agency, a semi-official bureau, writes:

"Just as Gen. Joffre did, Gen. Haig now feels obliged to strike a balance of the Somme battle. His review of the result of the battle, which already has waged more than three months, was published a few days ago. In it the British commander takes a view curiously opposite to that taken by the French commander, who considers the gain of terrain as the main result.

"The British General says:

"'The uninterrupted, systematic pressure of the entente armies must finally exhaust the morale and material forces of the central powers, especially as to the existing reserves of war material.'

"This so-called strategy of wearing out their opponents, through which a great decision of the war was expected, however, has accomplished very little, as proved by the great successes gained by the Central Powers, who still have such forces at their disposal that they are able to carry out their offenses. Thus it is evident that their reserves cannot be exhausted, but rather there must still exist a considerable abundance of forces.

"The glorious victories by these troops in the Balkans and in Transylvania, after the heavy fighting on the Somme and in Galicia further proves that their morale cannot have been lowered by systematic pressure, but rather must have been uplifted.

"That German troops cannot take the offensive when other troops take the offensive in other war theaters simultaneously must be self evident to everyone who knows the extension of the fronts on which Germany fights.

"The entente repeats from time to time the claim that Germany is exhausted, but this is merely empty words and advertising in order to impress neutrals and to stimulate their own nations and armies. The victorious defense in the east and west and the energetic offensive of the central Powers in Transylvania and the Balkans prove better than words the fact that the forces and military superiority of the central Powers are unshaken.

"England hopes to wear out the German forces by the present offensive on the Somme, but this can now be considered a failure."

KING WOULD SAVE GREECE IF IT COSTS HIS THRONE

Monarch Fears That if Country Enters War It Would Meet Fate He Predicts for Rumania.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—"When a high diplomatic personage besought King Constantine to change his policy," says the Daily Telegraph's Athens correspondent, "the King replied:

"'I prefer to lose my throne rather than endanger Greece. I am convinced that in 15 days Rumania will exist no more. If Greece went into the war, then, after the conquest of Rumania, the irresistible German forces would be directed against Greece, and she would share the fate of Servia and Rumania.'"

Demands on Greece Granted.

"Admiral du Fournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet," says a Reuter dispatch from Athens, dated Friday, "yesterday addressed a complimentary note to the Greek Government demanding on behalf of the allies, the control of the Greek police, the prohibition of Greek citizens from carrying arms, the stoppage of sending of war munitions to Thessaly and the lifting of the embargo on the transportation of Thessalian wheat.

The Greek Cabinet sat with the chief of the general staff until midnight, discussing th note. The council was resumed in the morning, when all the demands of Admiral du Fournet were accepted.

"The British Minister has visited M. Zalocostas, the new Greek Foreign Minister, whereby the entente recognizes the new Cabinet."

Plot to Fight Allies Alleged.

According to other Athens dispatches the entente allies sent their ultimatum to Greece because they had unearthed a royalist plot to fight the entente.

It was planned, the dispatches say, that if the allies should seek to coerce Greece into joining the war and try to force Elipthorios Venizelos upon King Constantine, the King should retire northward along the railway, taking the troops with him, and concentrate at Trikula, in Thessaly, and lie entrenched there until the arrival of the Garman army, when he would strike in unison with them at the allies.

ROBERT BACON REPLIES TO ATTACK OF PRESIDENT

Declares Statement He Would Promote One Side in Present War Is Beneath Contempt.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Robert Bacon, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator from New York, at the recent primary election, made public last night copies of an "open letter" he has written to President Wilson, with a caption saying that it is a response to "an attack upon him by President Wilson in the course of his speech at Shadow Lawn last Saturday."

The letter, in part, says:

"The statement that it was my intention if elected Senator to promote 'The interests of one side in the present war in Europe' and thereby violate my oath of office, is beneath contempt. My respect for the office of the President of the United States prevents me from characterizing such a statement as it deserves. I leave my judgment of its falsity to the public. Anyone who knows of me at all must know that for the last 10 years my life has been devoted to the cause of better international relations and the peaceful settlement of international disputes."

EXPERT ON CANCER WILL BE OPERATED ON FOR ONE

Dr. Satterlee, Kinsman of Morgan Thinks X-Ray Burns, Suffered 10 Years Ago, Caused Ailment.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Dr. Francis L. Satterlee Jr., an X-ray expert, author of many articles in scientific journals on the cure of cancer by radio treatment, will undergo an operation Tuesday for what is believed may be cancer of the right hand, resulting from burns received 19 years ago, when experimenting with an X-ray machine. The X-ray will not be used in his own case, as he believes the rays will not cure a cancer caused by them.

Dr. Satterlee has undergone several operations for skin grafting and two joints of the little finger have been removed in successive operations.

Dr. Satterlee is a cousin of Herbert L. Satterlee, cousin of J. P. Morgan.

KOELN PLANS SUIT IF NAME IS NOT PLACED ON BALLOT

City Counselor Holds Office of Collector Can't Be Filled in November.

Edward Foristel, one of the attorneys for City Collector Edward Koeln, asked the Board of Election Commissioners today whether Koeln, who was yesterday nominated by the Republican City Committee for re-election, can be placed on the ballot for the November election.

The board immediately asked City Counsellor Daues for an opinion. The City Counsellor says he will advise the board that Collector Koeln is a city officer, subject to the city charter, and therefore cannot be placed on the ballot for the November election.

If the board, on the Counsellor's advice, refuses to put Koeln's name on the ballot his attorneys say they will ask the Supreme Court to compel the board to take the action desired by Koeln.

Daues' View of Case.

Koeln was elected in April, 1913, at a city election, as his predecessors had been elected. He was elected for four years and his term would, therefore, expire next April. The statute provides that all collectors in the State shall be elected at the State election in November. City Counselor Daues says that whatever may have been the effect of the statute prior to the adoption of the present city charter, the statute is set aside, so far as St. Louis is concerned, by the charter.

Former City Counselor Charles W. Bates, another of Koeln's attorneys, said today that Koeln takes the position that he wants to be properly elected in conformity to the statute. Bates said Koeln was not discussing the validity of his previous election.

Fought Efficiency Provision.

Several months ago Counsellor Daues, at the request of Chairman Rogers of the Efficiency Board, filed a mandamus suit to compel Collector Koeln to place his employes under the efficiency provisions of the charter, which Collector Koeln had refused to do on the ground that his was a State office.

Counsellor Daues holds that if Collector Koeln is a State officer he was improperly elected the last time because the statute to which he appeals as exempting him from the operation of the charter provides that Coollectors shall be elected at the fall elections. Counsellor Daues holds, therefore, that Collector Koeln, under his own contention, would be only a de facto officer, but that the legality of his acts would not be affected.

Seven Persons Killed, 27 Wounded in Air Raid Over South Germany.

BERLIN, Oct. 13, via London, Oct. 14.—Details of the operations of entente aerial squadrons in their raids in Southern Germany on Thursday are given in supplementary reports issued today by the War Office. The attacks are declared to have been carried out by from 40 to 50 machines, but it is asserted that no military damage was done. A total of seven persons killed and more than a score injured was the extent of the casualties, says the statement, which names among the towns on which bombs were dropped Donaueschingen, Allenenhofen, Huefingen, Eschweiler, near Neustadt and Hatsch, in the Kinzig Valley, and Rothwell. At Tuebingen, the statement says, a bomb fell on the reserve hospital, killing two children in a neighboring garden. At Tuebingen and Oberndorf seven persons were killed and 27 wounded. Of nine attacking aeroplanes shot down, one was British.

SENATOR GORE INDISPOSED, HAS TO CANCEL ENGAGEMENT

A slight indisposition today prevented United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma from beginning his Democratic speechmaking tour of St. Louis County at the scheduled hour.

In Clayton at 9:30 a. m. Walter A. Kelly, a St. Louis lawyer, who, like Gore, is blind, was introduced as substitute speaker. It was announced that Senator Gore would speak in Wellston at 3 p. m.

Senator Gore spoke to a crowd that filled the East St. Louis auditorium last night. He told the many women in the audience that Hughes is trying to hand them a gold brick on the suffrage issue, and said Hughes did not even take time to go to New York to vote for it, whereas President Wilson did go home for that purpose.

He said when Hughes crawls out of bed each morning he says "Give us this day our daily issue."

BIG CROWDS IN MISSOURI TURN OUT TO MEET HUGHES

He Tells Springfield Railroad Men He Favors Principle of 8-Hour Day—Tariff on Zinc Advocated at Joplin.

By GEORGE W. EADS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 14.—Charles E. Hughes told the railroad men of Springfield yesterday afternoon that he was a firm believer in the principle of the eight-hour day, and he also told the miners of Joplin last night that he advocated a protective tariff on zinc, which would insure permanent prosperity for this mining district and high wages for the workers.

Although Hughes was late for both meetings, he was greeted by an audience that taxed the capacity of the convention hall at Springfield and by another audience of probably 8000 under and around a big circus tent at Joplin. Big crowds gathered at the railroad stations at Lebanon, Aurora and Monett in the expectation of hearing a brief rear-platform speech, but the condition of the voice of the candidate was such that he would not undertake outdoor speeches.

The Springfield meeting was scheduled for 1:20 p. m., but the Hughes special did not arrive until after 4 o'clock. There was not much delay at Joplin, as Hughes went direct from his train to the tent. He left Joplin at midnight for Kansas City, and from there went into Nebraska for a series of speeches today.

Reads His Labor Record.

It was at the request of the Republican National Committee that Hughes discussed the tariff issue at Joplin, and touched upon it at Springfield. He read during his Springfield address what a labor newspaper of Albany, N. Y., had to say of his labor record at the close of his term as Governor of New York and upon his appointment to the Supreme bench. This statement praised his labor record highly. That was what organized labor thought of him, he said, when labor thought that he was never coming back into politics.

There is a big union labor and railroad men's vote at Springfield, as large Frisco shops are there. Hughes has learned much about playing the political game since his first Western trip. It is apparent that he is trying to make speeches in each community that will appeal to the class of voters who live there. He is also much more eager to participate in handshaking events than he was a month ago. He never missed an opportunity anywhere along the line yesterday to shake hands of as many persons as possible. He made an appeal at Joplin for the election of a Republican Congressman, something he did not do on the other trip, in order that protective tariff laws might be enacted.

Discusses Adamson Law.

Hughes discussed the Adamson law at considerable length at Springfield in an attempt to win the support of the railroad men, who are reported to be almost unanimously for Wilson. The Springfield audience was comprised for the most part of farmers who had come in from adjoining counties, and women. Some railroad men were in the audience After declaring himself to be in hearty sympathy with the eight-hour principle, he said:

"Now, this bill that was passed the other day in Congress, known as the Adamson bill, did not apply the principle of the eight hour work day. It did not establish an eight-hour work day. It was not intended to establish an eight-hour work day. It did not limit hours of work. It did not prohibit contracts for more than eight hours of work, save in cases of emergencies.

"It did not interfere with the runs of duty or the hours of work; it was not intended to. Yet, when anybody talks about that bill, embodying an eight-hour work day, he tries to clothe the bill in a dress which it does not deserve, because it is not that kind of a bill at all.

"Things that are all right can afford to be described according to their actual nature. In this particular bill you are dealing with railroads. Railroads have their practical circumstances of operation; they have their division points. Runs are made to division points. When there is a division point, there you will find clustered about that a great many homes. The hours of duty are arranged with practical relation to those divisions that are created.

"It was not intended to change these conditions to revolutionize practical railroading.

It was not intended to change the hours of labor and enforce a limitation of eight hours upon those referred to in the bill. Not at all. Men were paid on the basis of hours and miles; 10 hours and 100 miles; not simply on the basis of hours.

Basis of Wage Scale.

"If a man made his 100 miles in less than 10 hours he got his day's pay. If he made his 100 miles in 12 hours he got his pay on the 10-hour basis, with his additional pay for the two hours' extra time. It was not simply a basis of hours. It was a basis of hours and miles."

"Now, the object of this bill was not to put in an eight-hour workday in any proper sense, but to change the basis on which wages were paid, to leave men working just the same number of hours, but by changing the wage scale to give an increased pay. It was a wage bill, not an eight-hour bill.

"When we look at it from that point of view, we have several things that at once invite consideration. I am not opposed to increases of wages, of course. If increases of wages are just, they ought to be paid. In this particular case, this hasty legislation led to some extraordinary results. For the man who makes his 100 miles in less than eight hours does not exactly know. I imagine, where he is, under a bill that fixes eight hours alone as the basis of pay, instead of hours and miles; but that is a mere detail. If an increase of wages for those who benefit by the bill ought to be had, then nobody can complain, but you must consider what you are doing.

Reference to 8-Hour Day.

"Now, it was said there was a judgment of society, a general condition, with regard to the appropriateness of the bill. Reference was made, of course, to an eight-hour workday. But, my friends, if there was a judgment of society in favor of an eight-hour workday as applied under their practical conditions of operation, why did not they put it in? If there was this judgment of society for an eight-hour workday for railroads, why did they limit it to 20 per cent of the men? Why did they not give it to 100 per cent of the men? If they were enforcing a general conviction about which there was no debate, why did they take electric railroads out of the rule?

"Are not men who work on electric railroads as much entitled to consideration in an eight-hour workday, about which there is no doubt at all, as men who work on a steam railroad? Why should railroads less than 100 miles in length be excepted? The reason is that they were not dealing with an eight-hour workday at all, but with wage increases on a new wage basis which they put in operation as to the particular men concerned.

"Now, how does that apply? I have this to say from a labor standpoint. I am not speaking on the question, whether the bill is a valid bill or not, or whether it amounts to anything or not. I am talking of it from a labor point of view I regard it as a very serious thing for labor.

"Only a couple of years ago the federation passed a resolution that it did not favor fixing hours of labor by law, except in the case of Government employes. A year later it re-enacted that resolution on very sound reasoning, as it seems to me.

Points to Other View.

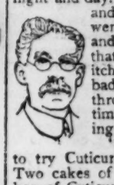

"If you can have wages increased over night by the application of force, then you can have wages decreased over night, some day, by the application of force. That sort of thing is not an encouraging thing for labor. Are we to have rival lobbies, maintained by rival organizations, to see where the greatest pressure can be applied? It is a very serious thing for labor to give up the principle of collective bargaining and substitute for that the principle of legislation under pressure.

"I had supposed that labor held very tenaciously to the principle of collective bargaining, that it believed in that way its progress would be better assured. It is also a very serious thing

FIREMEN DIFFER AS TO WHAT CHIEF WORE AT C. B. C. FIRE

Witnesses at Inquest Say He Had on White Coat, Blue Coat, Fedora, Helmet.

DID NOT HEAR ABUSE

One Says Woman Thought Henderson Had Hit Fireman Knocked From Ladder.

Firemen testifying at the Christian Brothers College fire inquest today variously described Chief Henderson as having worn a white oil coat and white helmet, a blue flannel coat and fedora hat, a blue coat and white helmet and as being in his shirt sleeves. All agreed that he did not order men into dangerous places and was not abusive to firemen.

Capt. Martin Tierney of Engine Company 17 testified that when he arrived at the fire at 9:30 a. m. he saw the Chief in a blue uniform coat and fedora hat.

Andrew Burke, chauffeur for Assistant Chief Christie, said he and Christie arrived about 7:30 a. m., on the second alarm. Christie wore a white rubber coat and white helmet.

A short time before the wall fell, killing six firemen, he said, he and Christie went through the basement and saw seven or eight foremen working there. He was not asked if Christie ordered these men out.

Wore White Coat, One Says.

Lieut. Frank Werminghaus of Truck Co. 17 testified he arrived at the fire at 7:25 a. m., and a little later saw Henderson at the northeast corner of the building wearing a white coat and white helmet. He said that after Louis Nolan, a nurse, jumped from a fifth story window and knocked Fireman George Morris off a ladder, he saw a woman in the crowd point to Chief Henderson and say, "That big brute struck that fireman and knocked him down."

Morris was lying on the ground and Henderson was leaning over him.

Werminghaus said he explained to the woman that Morris had been knocked from the ladder and had not been struck by the Chief. Later he said he told the Chief a woman had accused him of striking Morris and Chief Henderson replied: "Hell, no. He was struck by that man who jumped from the window."

Capt. George W. Broomfield, of Engine Co. 32, described Henderson as wearing a white coat and white helmet. He said he heard no abusive language.

Lieut. William McGuire of Engine Company 48 testified that he was working in a stairway at the north side of the building when he looked from a window and saw Chief Henderson in his shirtsleeves. Asked if he was sure of this he said:

"Well, he was all white above the waist line, but not below it. It seemed to me he had on no coat."

Fireman Frank Mestemacher of Engine Co. 36 testified that "Henderson wore a blue and a white hat or a soft hat, but he may have been bareheaded."

Several other firemen in their testimony differed as to the Chief's costume, but they agreed he was not abusive to firemen.

Positions of Firemen Who Testify Will Not Be Jeopardized.

Alderman Tamme, chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on Public Safety, which, following the Coroner's inquest, will investigate the causes leading to the death of six firemen in the Christian Brothers College fire, yesterday presented a resolution to the Board of Aldermen guaranteeing that the positions of firemen who appear and testify before the committee will not be jeopardized. The resolution was adopted unanimously.

Tamme said there is a feeling both in and out of the committee that the firemen are afraid of losing their positions, and that in his opinion those who have already testified at the Coroner's inquest have shown a desire to shield their superiors.

for labor to give up the principle of arbitration or to have that principle destroyed.

"You can very easily stimulate opposition to arbitration. I think it is a very wholesome thing to have arbitration of those industrial disputes which affect the instrumentalities of society. What does it mean? It means a fair, candid and prompt inquiry. Somebody says we cannot get fair arbitration. I can. All that is necessary is to perfect the machinery."

After discussing the tariff issue at Joplin, Hughes talked on the Mexican question at some length, and asserted very positively that he was for peace, and that he did not want war with any nation. It was only inexcusable blundering that could bring war upon this country, he declared.

Senator James A. Reed is scheduled to speak at Springfield tonight and answer Hughes' attack on the Adamson law.

HUGHES DECLARES OUR PROSPERITY IS BUILT ON SAND

By Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 14.—Charles E. Hughes yesterday took his campaign to Missouri, the fourth of the states that skirt the so-called "solid South" to be visited on his present trip. Save for one stop, at Springfield, Mo., the entire day was spent traveling. The nominee at Joplin last night addressed an audience in a big tent, making his chief theme the protective tariff.

Hughes told the crowd that the present prosperity of the country was built on sand, that "the intoxicated fancy may indulge in happy dreams, but the sober thought of the country is directed to the day when this stimulant—the European war—will be no longer available."

He referred to "those who are seeking to make political capital out of our present war prosperity," portrayed in detail conditions as he viewed them, in the United States when the war shall end and assailed the Democratic tariff policy as a policy which "means idle plants and impoverished workmen."

War Makes Unhealthy Stimulus.

"No thoughtful American can view our present economic condition without serious apprehension," Hughes told his audience here. "We are under the unhealthy stimulus of the European war. Hopes are raised which cannot be fulfilled. Our present prosperity is built on sand. Our exports have jumped to fabulous figures because of the withdrawal from production of the millions of men abroad who are engaged in fighting. Our trade is not determined by condition of normal competition, but of an abnormal European want.

"Munitions of war are but a fraction of those suddenly expended exports. For everything we produce, foodstuffs, metals, manufactured articles of every sort, Europe puts forth her hands to fill the void created by her extremity.

"The resulting employment of labor on an unprecedented scale and increased purchasing power stimulates trade throughout the country. The intoxicated fancy may indulge in happy dreams, but the sober thought of the country is directed to the day when this stimulant will be no longer available.

"You cannot have our exports suddenly jump hundreds per cent, in some cases thousands per cent, and ignore either the cause or the effect of its removal.

"What will be our condition when the war is over? In the first place, a large amount of labor employed at high wages will lose that employment. The demand which it is now supplying will cease. The mere stoppage of the manufacture of munitions will mean in itself a serious change in the opportunities of labor. When the millions of men in the trenches return to production our exports of manifold products will fall off tremendously, even as they have risen tremendously.

"Think of the percentage of American labor now profitably employed in making Europe's necessities created by the existence of war. What will occur when those necessities no longer exist? The labor now devoted to that abnormal demand must compete with the labor satisfying the normal opportunities of American trade. The change will be reflected in diminished purchasing power.

Difference Will Be Felt.

"I do not desire to exaggerate. There is enough to give us serious thought without exaggeration. America with Europe at peace will not have the opportunity of America with Europe at war. And the difference will be most keenly felt.

"We shall not simply lose opportunities for labor. We shall have the active competition resulting from the resumption of foreign production. That production will be more skillful; more intelligent, better organization in every one of the foreign nations now at war than it has ever been before. Nations will not only seek to protect so far as possible their economic independence but they will seek our markets. It is fatuous to suppose that the wants of war will incapacitate them for efficient production.

"Despite the losses of war, I believe that each of the belligerent Powers has a vastly increased efficiency. The lessons of war, of discipline, of prudent management of resources, of co-operation in economic needs, of improved processes, of methods of organization will not be forgotten until factories are established with a view to be easily changed into peace factories.

"Thus, as recently stated in a bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce of Paris, the large war factories in the neighborhood of Lyons, St. Etienne, Roanne and Annonay will be after the war converted into works for various manufactures. Engineers and workmen now making explosives will be able with the same machinery to make products useful in peaceful trade.

"Powerful associations, such as the syndicate, grouping together different societies in the coal, metal, dyeing and weaving trades have been formed. It is this commendable planning and foresight of which this is only an illustration, which will make war factories, not only in France, but in Germany and England, productive after the war ends.

Believes in Tariff Board.

"It is manifest that we cannot meet the situation which will arise at the close of the war without a sensible use of the protecting power of government. Our opponents have scouted a protective tariff. They offer a tariff commission, but tariff commissions do not legislate. It is Congress that legislates. I believe in a tariff commission, as I want all the facts carefully gathered and analyzed. We wish a tariff adjustment that is fair and reasonable.

"If the American people desire the principle of a protective tariff applied to the protection of American products, the upbuilding of American industry and the securing of our proper economical independence, they must put in power those who believe in the protective principle. The opposing party does not believe in it.

"Those who are seeking to make political capital out of our present war prosperity have little to say as to the conditions which prevailed less than two years ago.

"It was the day of soup houses and municipal relief; the day of reduced output and contracted enterprise. We cannot afford a return of that day. But it will return if we do not wisely provide against it. The Democratic policy has increased imports only to decrease revenue. It has given us a war revenue act in time of peace to make up for the deficit created by its own policy. Its policy means idle plants and impoverished workmen."

"Our friends on the other side seek to capitalize prosperity," Hughes said. "And when the European war ends their capital is gone. I think the time has come when if we are to have full American prosperity and realization of our aspirations for success throughout the world of American policies, we must not only have here at home wise policies of protection, but it must be understood that an American citizen, lawfully prosecuting his business, will be protected in his life and property, according to his rights under international law, wherever he is.

Old Spirit With America.

"The old spirit is still with America, and it is no friend of America who allows that spirit to be misunderstood.

"If you invite insults and indignities and give the idea that America will stand for them, you are simply heaping up opportunities for difficulties and struggles instead of peace.

"I want to sum up what I have to say in these words: 'First, I want to see America prosperous and contented, with a just distribution of a prosperity well secured by proper protective policies.

"I want to see the American flag the symbol of righteousness, the symbol of power, the symbol of dignity, of protected citizenship.

"And I want to see this nation girded with a desire to serve humanity, but, realizing that it can serve no one throughout the world unless it respects itself.'"

In his remarks on the protective tariff Hughes referred to the zinc industry, in which Joplin is extensively interested, as an illustration of an industry now flourishing which might come in competition with European enterprise after the war.

Hughes Opens Two-Day Campaign in Nebraska.

FALLS CITY, Neb., Oct. 14.—Charles E. Hughes today opened his campaign in Nebraska with an address from the rear platform of his car to a crowd of farmers at the station here. The nominee outlined his policy of a protective tariff, and assailed the administration's foreign policy.

He expects to spend three days in the State—today and Monday campaigning and tomorrow resting at Lincoln.

Hughes' program calls for five speeches today. Besides his stop here, he will make short stops at Beatrice, Fairbury and York, and will speak tonight at Lincoln. The second day's campaign provides for addresses at Hastings, Grand Island, Columbus, Fremont and Omaha.

$20,000 BET IN WALL STREET AT 8 TO 5 ODDS ON HUGHES

Plenty of Wilson Money in Sight, but Instructions Are to Get Two to One Odds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Betting on the presidential election was greater in Wall street yesterday than it has been since the campaign opened. Wilson money was offered in larger amounts than heretofore. Early in the day $25,000 was in the hands of commissioners to be placed on the Democratic nominee's chances at 1 to 2. The best odds the Hughes men would offer, however, were 8 to 5. At that price $20,000 was taken.

In stock exchange circles the largest bet placed was $5000 to $8000 on Wilson. One of $700 to $1000 was announced and another of $3000 to $5000. Curb commissioners at the close of the day said they had $30,000 additional to be placed on Wilson at 5 to 8. J. J. Judge placed $4000 on the Democratic candidate against $6400.

AT ALL STAGES OF LIFE

The Woman's Medicine, Good for All Ages. Mrs. Harold Smith's Experience.

"I am writing to tell you the good your medicine has always done me, and I hope my letter may be the means of helping some other suffering woman. When I was 16 years old I caught cold, which followed with a more serious illness. I got so weak I could scarcely drag myself up the stairs. I went to two doctors, then my mother got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it. I never had any more trouble and got strong fast. Then I took it again before my little girl was born, and it helped me a good deal, and I give the Compound the credit for it. Then this Spring I felt very badly again, but I took the Compound and have been well all Summer. I cannot be grateful enough for your medicine."—MRS. HAROLD M. SMITH, 470 Water Street, Clarksburg, W. CHECK THAT ECZEMA BEFORE IT GETS SERIOUS

That little patch of eruption may be nothing more than a slight annoyance now. But, if neglected, such things have an uncomfortable way of spreading and becoming really serious—turning into itching, burning skin troubles that make life almost unbearable.

So don't take chances. Nip it in the bud with a few simple treatments with Resinol. Usually the first bathing with Resinol Soap and dressing with Resinol Ointment stop all itching, and soon the irritation is entirely cleared away. Doctors have prescribed Resinol for over 20 years, so that it is not an experiment, but a remedy of proven value. All druggists sell Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap. But if you want a sample of each, free, write to Dept. 54-R, Resinol Baltimore, Md.—ADV.

OUR 3rd HARVEST SALE OF FALL AND WINTER NEEDS

Takes Place Beginning Monday, October 16th

Those Who Have Attended Our great Harvest Sales of previous years know full well what this announcement means, ESPECIALLY NOW, when the cost of food stuffs and of wearing apparel are going sky high. We will say that it has been quite difficult to carry out this great sale on the plans of former years, BUT WE HAVE SUCCEEDED.

We Set Out Many Months Ago To accomplish our purpose. WE PURCHASED THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS WORTH OF SEASONABLE MERCHANDISE. We went to manufacturers and jobbers, visited the larger mills of the country, and with our powerful buying influence and by insisting upon the fulfillment of orders placed by us long before the rise, we have secured some of THE MOST WONDERFUL BARGAINS ST. LOUISANS HAVE SEEN THIS SEASON.

To Those Who Do Not Know What This Great Harvest Sale Means

To the people of St. Louis and vicinity, we ask you to join the crowds here this coming week. Each day more wonderful than the other in point of sales.

This is an event that is only equaled in importance by the ANNIVERSARY SALE in the Spring, and coming as it does now, on the threshold of Winter when you need things for the home and apparel for the person, it is indeed an exceptional opportunity.

Getting Old Too Fast?

Late in life the body is likely to show signs of wear. Often the Kidneys are the first organs to weaken. The back becomes lame, weak and achy, the joints stiff, and the kidney action distressing.

This condition makes you feel older than you are.

Don't wait for the worst effects of bad kidneys—gravel, dropsy, hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease.

Use a mild kidney stimulant.

Try Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands of elderly people recommend them. Many who live right here in St. Louis have found great relief from backache, lame back, bladder and kindred disorders.

Doan's contain no narcotic nor habit-forming drugs and may be used by young or old.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Unprotected Pedestrians.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have just returned home after spending this (Sunday) afternoon at the Art Museum. There were many people in the park, some playing golf, others on the tennis courts, hundreds in automobiles, and the great majority, like myself, afoot. I do not wish to criticise those who possess motor cars, nor do I envy them—I would that I could afford one—but surely it must strike the average pedestrian that the park is no longer for him.

It may prove interesting to know that in my walk from the end of the Union avenue line, through the Jefferson Memorial, on to the museum, not a policeman was in sight, going or returning. The public is compelled to fight its way through the crossings with absolutely no protection from the police, and the drivers of the motor cars take undue advantage of this condition in the absence of any effort to prevent it.

There was one officer directing traffic last Sunday between the bear pits and bird cage, and as I didn't go that far this afternoon, he may have been on duty today also.

I might state that similar conditions prevail in the congested district during the morning rush hours. Traffic police are never seen to handle the vast army of workers, and I am afraid there will be a serious collision some morning between one of the numerous heavy drays and crowded cars.

Possibly I am becoming old and require assistance in making crossings, but I honestly believe this evil should be remedied. Our city is growing and we must grow with it. ART LOVER.

Street Cars Getting Chilly.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Don't you think it is already time for the United Railways to set up the stoves in the cars? The weather is cold enough to suggest that, and I think it is a good idea to be prepared for colder days.

I was a passenger on the East Side line over the bridge, and I can assure you of the first-class condition the cars are kept. The stoves were put up a month ago, and it is a pleasure to ride on these cars.

Wouldn't it be possible for the U. R.'s to do likewise and give us more adequate service?

Soldan High School Lectures.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish to notify the public through your columns that the series of lectures on Ireland that is advertised to be given at the Soldan High School and the first of which was delivered on Oct. 6 by the Rev. Father Tallon, is in no sense historical, but merely to afford sympathizers with the extreme Sinn Fein Irish faction an opportunity to glorify rebellion against the English Government and to manifest their friendship for Germany. W. W. Boyd's introductory address was one long denunciation of England, and the reverend father who lectured, was not one whit behind him in virulence and misrepresentation. Surely the School Board is unaware of such desecration of a forum that should be sacred to historical truth and surely, when its attention is drawn to the attempt at partisan propaganda, it will revoke permission for future meetings.

L. R. JOHNSON.

Stirring Up Race Prejudice.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Smarting under the sting of merited rebuke for his impertinent telegram to the President, Jeremiah O'Leary of New York now declares that the Irish-American vote, always largely Democratic, will this year be thrown to the Republican nominee for the presidency. Mr. O'Leary is undertaking a large contract when he attempts to deliver the Irish-American vote; his effontery will only provoke resentment from those whom he pretends to represent.

President Wilson has shown himself to be fair-minded in his dealings with all men, of whatever creed or racial descent. He proved this when, in defiance of the forces of knownothingism, he vetoed the un-American Burnett immigration bill. His course during the past four years merits the approval of all true Americans. In the term "true Americans" I do not, of course, include either those hyphenates who place the welfare of a foreign country above that of America or those anonymous "patriots" who are trying to inject prejudices, and in particular religious prejudice, into the presidential campaign. J. O'MARA.

Hot Time in the Old Continent.

The entente allies are ordering thousands of stoves from the United States, and the indications are, of course, that the winter campaign will be a hot one.

Japan's Object.

From the Philadelphia Record.

According to Japan, it is gouging China for no other purpose than to secure the trade rights of the United States.

THE TAX-BURDENED RICH.

State Senator James W. Wadsworth of New York has been telling the people of Maryville, Mo., what terrible and discriminating hardships have been laid upon the suffering millionaires of New York and the East by the income tax.

Senator Wadsworth has figured that New York's rich pay 37 per cent of the income taxes and the wealth of New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Illinois bear 70 per cent of the income taxes. He pointed out that the South bore a small proportion of these taxes while getting the benefit of appropriations.

This is a sad tale. Senator Wadsworth did not preach revolt on the part of the Eastern millionaires as Senator Lodge has been doing, but doubtless he aroused the citizens of Maryville to a high pitch of pity and resentment. It is a cruel thing to make the rich men of any section of the country bear the burden of taxation. The mere fact that they have wealth ought not to be taken into consideration in levying the taxes. The income tax is unjust because it taxes in proportion to wealth, to the ability of citizens to bear the tax and to the benefits they enjoy under the Government. This theory and policy are wrong, according to Senators Wadsworth and Lodge. The poor should bear, not a proportionate, but an equal burden with the rich.

Doubtless Maryville shed bitter tears over the awful picture of the Eastern millionaires staggering under the weight of taxes levied on their bloated incomes.

Senator Wadsworth has an excellent substitute for the income tax which falls upon the rich according to their wealth. We read in the report of his speech that he "also made a plea for the protective tariff." Tariff taxes are paid by all the people who purchase taxed imports and protected domestic goods. The rich make out of the profits of protected industries far more than they have to pay on the imported goods they use. The masses of the people pay the tariff taxes.

The point in the Republican campaign is clear. Mr. Hughes while Governor of New York opposed the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution; he wrote a message condemning it and helped to defeat its ratification. He advocates high protective tariffs.

Mr. Hughes' supporters in the East condemn the income tax because it puts heavier burdens on the large incomes of the rich than on the small incomes of the poor. They advocate high protective tariffs.

The income tax is levied in proportion to the wealth of citizens—the largest incomes bearing the heaviest burdens.

The protective tariff puts the burden of taxation on all consumers—it levies taxes on consumption, regardless of wealth, and assures high profits to protected capitalists.

The Republican party wants the tariff taxes on consumers revised upward and the income taxes on wealth revised downward.

The Wilson administration has revised the tariff taxes on consumers downward and the income taxes on wealth upward.

Which do the people want?

THE MUCH DIVORCED WEST.

Divorce evils are greater in the West than in the East. In Colorado it confronts us every hour and in Nevada every minute.—Alex. Dupont Parker, Delegate to the Episcopal General Convention.

A rather pessimistic view of social conditions in the West, but an argument neither for nor against woman's suffrage. Women have been voting in Colorado since 1893, but in Nevada only since 1914.

EAST ST. LOUIS' APPALLING TRAGEDY.

For every parent in the St. Louis industrial district with its 1,000,000 population and for myriads of parents outside, the tragic story of 3-year-old Alphonse Magarian will have something of a personal quality. They will hope that the detection of the boy's murderers will be so prompt and their punishment so swift and severe as to prove a deterrent on the abnormal type of vindictive degenerate which alone could be guilty of so appalling a crime.

The lad was observed at play near his home late on the afternoon of Oct. 4. No witnesses have been found to the manner of his disappearance, which is attributed to unknown abductors. After nine days of suspense unrelieved by a proffered reward of $2000 for information as to his whereabouts, his parents learned of the discovery of his headless body on ground used as a dumping place for refuse.

Fortunately local crime records are stained with few acts as monstrous as the one resulting in this small innocent's death. The guilty persons are a menace to the public as long as they are permitted to be at large. Every effort to establish their identity, every clew made known or followed up, every scrap of reliable information supplied, may be a means of increasing protection generally for children on both sides of the river.

Happily the President of the United States is not a statesman who "goes off half-cocked."

A COMPREHENSIVE DES PERES PLAN.

The plan for enclosing and controlling, once for all, the Des Peres, within the city limits, prepared by the City Plan Commission with the assistance of the Board of Public Service, was outlined in Friday's Post-Dispatch.

The scheme contemplates a new and adequate concrete channel for the stream from Macklind avenue to the Mississippi, a large tubular concrete sewer, double in Forest Park and single from there to Macklind avenue, with a municipal belt road on the north bank and a boulevard on the south bank, at a total expenditure estimated at $8,019,118, to be covered by a 20-year bond issue.

In considering this scheme and its probable cost, we have to balance against the expense the enormous losses caused by this stream in the past and the possibility of those losses being duplicated, if not exceeded in the future, unless we pay the price for putting a stop to such losses.

Last year, for example, 11 lives were lost by the Des Peres overflowing its banks. The loss in property caused the filing of damage suits totaling $200,000. A great many families were turned out of house and home, and a relief fund had to be raised, the distribution of which placed, for the time being, a large number of workers in the ranks with paupers—a situation wholly due to the neglect of the city.

If the property losses alone, during the past decade, were totaled, they would be found to greatly exceed, averaged annually, the interest on he amount needed to make the improvements contemplated by the City Plan Commission's scheme. Sooner or later the city will have to put through some such comprehensive plan. It ought to be done, and the work well started, before another flood season is upon us.

WHERE DO YOU STAND, MR. HUGHES?

The issue of State-wide prohibition, which will be voted on Nov. 7, vitally affects Missouri and profoundly interests every citizen of the State.

Resolutions providing for nation-wide prohibition are pending in both houses of Congress. Every citizen of the United States is deeply interested in that question.

If Mr. Hughes, Republican candidate for the presidency, has uttered a word on this subject it is not on record to our knowledge. The people of Missouri, to whom Mr. Hughes is now appealing for votes, would like to know where he stands on these questions. While he is in the West we ask him:

Where do you stand on State-wide prohibition?

Where do you stand on nation-wide prohibition?

If Mr. Hughes refuses, as he has hitherto done, to answer questions as to his attitude on public issues we ask Republican leaders who are urging the people to vote for Mr. Hughes if they have definite information as to his attitude on State-wide and nation-wide prohibition?

Wall street winces at Woodrow. It would wail at his election.

NEW ST. LOUIS BALLOT PLAN.

The last Legislature granted St. Louis a measure of home rule in election matters. That is, it gave the city the right by charter amendment to adopt any ballot system it saw fit for the selection of its own officers.

Under this enabling act, an amendment to the charter will be submitted to the voters on Nov. 7. It provides for the nomination of candidates for city offices by petition, for a nonpartisan ballot, for preferential voting and for proportional representation.

In view of some disappointing features in the direct nomination system and the irreconcilable hostility of the people to the corrupt convention system we may believe that nominating by petition is a desirable method of primary reform. It obviates the necessity for two costly campaigns and elections. The preferential ballot enables the voters to perform two functions in one election—that of selecting candidates and actually casting the ballots for their election.

Until the voters are thoroughly familiarized with its details, it is wise first to try out the merits of the plan in municipal and other small election jurisdictions. Whether or not adapted to the larger jurisdictions, it seems admirably adapted to local uses.

On the nonpartisan, preferential ballot, candidates are classified according to the offices for which they are proposed and not according to political parties, thus giving a nearer approximation to the original Australian ballot whose superiority is unquestioned. It tends to minimize the partisan influence after, as well as before, election—an improvement especially to be desired in city affairs.

The proportional representation feature has become almost a necessity, if our present excellent method of choosing Aldermen is to be continued. Election of the members of this city board on a general ticket is vastly to be preferred to election by wards, but a defect in the plan is that when the city goes by a large majority for one party or other, it results in the choice of a board whose members are all of one political faith. The present board, for instance, is solidly Republican. Proportional representation will insure a minority about as large as if Aldermen were chosen by wards. It provides an opposition in the body to hold the majority in check.

St. Louisans should study this workable, well conceived plan for giving better election results. It will supplement in valuable ways the short ballot feature of the charter and should be adopted.

NO REAL HARM DONE.

The modest assertion of some churchmen that theirs is a church of "vogue" and that a special "social position" is enjoyed by its members serves to recall old Ecclesiastes' lament about vanity, and especially one of the Beatitudes—"Blessed are the meek."

However, the boasts seem to have been innocently made, and the vaunted things are not of a nature to be envied or resented by other spiritual bodies, so that no harm has been done.

It seems clear now that the Maine election was chiefly a prohibition victory.

RATIO OF PARK ACRES TO PERSONS.

City planners find from comparisons with other cities that St. Louis has made commendable provision for parks and public grounds. However, these public areas are unevenly distributed. It is computed that there is an acre of park land to every 96.5 persons in the western portion of the city, one to 701 persons in the central portion and one to 1871 persons in the eastern portion.

It may be expected that the acquisition of new areas will keep pace with increase of population in the western section, but material decrease in the high ratio of persons to acres in the eastern section is hardly to be hoped for in view of the cost of land. However, a strong incentive is furnished for buying and opening small parks that will prevent the ratio from increasing. Every new acre of park land can do a work there which it cannot do in other portions of St. Louis.

The world is amazed. Mr. Edison, though he eats little and sleeps but four hours of the 24, at the age of 69 easily kicks a high chandelier. Had the wizard not devoted himself to invention, what he might have done for the circus!

"THE COWARD, HE KEPT US OUT OF WAR!"

JUST A MINUTE

Written for the POST-DISPATCH by Clark McAdams

THE WAR REVIEW.

NOTHING but the desire to make printed records available to future historians prompts us to turn now and then to the war. We are sick of it. Still, we experience none of that horror which afflicted us when the war was young. Human nature adapts itself to all the plagues of life, and squeezes some happiness out of its brief sojourn upon earth despite everything. Judging by the way we feel about the war now, it was probably possible along near the end of the Thirty Years War for family groups to sit out on the front porch on pleasant Sunday afternoons and see a man butchered out in the road without even going to the front gate.

However. The allies say they are winning the war, though that is not always as apparent to us as it might be. About the time we begin to believe it, the central Powers hit the Rumanians or someone else a terrific swat which makes us wonder if we can be sure. That very thing happened this week. The French and British took their regular 400 yards on the west front, the Italians went around left end for a good gain, and the Russians held the Teutons for downs. All this would have been rosy for the allies had it not been for the Rumanians. The Rumanians are opposed by Von Falkenhayn, who was formerly chief of staff. This gentleman has been itching for a long time to prove that it is easier to soak somebody at a particular place in the line than it is to plan a general advance by which the enemy can be driven back on all fronts. It is the misfortune of the Rumanians to be in his way while he is establishing this probable truth. He has hammered the literal daylights out of them all week, and if there is a Rumanian left alive on that front it is because he could go down one side of a mountain faster than the Germans could go up the other. That is what is known in the Balkans as the gravity maneuver, a very important bit of strategy. They tell us that a Balkan soldier getting away with it is no person to meet where the trails cross.

At that. The allies are slowly but surely overcoming the enemy with those imponderables which have so fascinated the German military writers when they thought Germany had them. Lloyd-George said the last million pounds sterling would decide the war, and that England would have it. So it seems. The Germans say everything is plentiful in Germany, but it probably isn't. One Wilson enthusiast in this country says Germany is being saved from bankruptcy by a law similar to our own Federal banking act. Nobody else has claimed that much for the Federal banking act. Whether it helps the potato crop, or makes two heads of cabbage grow where one grew before, we do not know. It is enough for the present that Germany has a law just like it and has plenty of everything after two years of the blockade.

The appearance of submarines on this side of the Atlantic only made that brief stir which always results whenever one of those things bobs up. Col. Roosevelt had a couple of hard spasms, but Mr. Wilson sat in his high place with his usual calm. He could not see that the Germans were transgressing any of the principles of international law, which probably helped a good many friends of Germany in this country to believe that Mr. Wilson is actually neutral.

The Bulgarians are getting a good paddywhacking, and Greece has bent her suppliant knee long enough to let the allies intern her navy. Japan reassures us again as to her intention in China. To believe or not to believe is a task for somebody like Hamlet, who can give his entire thought to it. We may have to send some soft stepper like John Lind over to find out. They are keen, the Japs—but they couldn't hear John coming.

"WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?"

WHERE are my children,
You should have borne?
Have you denied them
Life, while I mourn?
Why have you sent them
Rudely away?
Bright rays of sunshine,
Lighting the day.

My life is lonely,
I love them all,
But my own darlings
Hear not my call.
Where are their footsteps
Treading the sky,
Whilst in my slumbers
Restless I lie?

When life is waning,
And silently,
By the bright firelight,
Wait you and I,
I can but wonder
How it would seem,
If on young faces
Its rays might gleam.

Where are my babies,
Whom I would kiss?
My dear dream-children
Sadly I miss.
Where are my treasures,
Wife of my heart?
Must we forever
Be swept apart?

Shall tiny ghost-forms
Flit silently,
Haunting our mem'ries
Eternally?
My arms are empty,
My heart forlorn—
Where shall I find them
When breaks the morn?

WHY NOT BE FRANK?

From the Mt. Vernon (Ill.) Register.

WANTED—A man who has his system full of good red blood and a lot of good common sense, that knows how to farm. I will have from 80 to 120 acres to rent very soon. Man must have two good teams, and not "skates," to farm with; 50 acres of the farm is bottom land; good five-room house to live in; no down-and-outers or those afflicted with the hookworm need apply. Reasonable cash rent.

A lover of the inconsequential is one who never tires of reading that the distance between Brownsville and El Paso, two points in Texas, is greater by 140 miles than the distance between New York and St. Louis. What of it?

A contributor to Poetry says inexact criticism is the product of a lazy mind. If that is so, Mr. Hughes' mind must have been off on a mighty fine fishing trip.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

AS TO CONSUMPTION.

HAROLD.—A Toronto physician, at his own expense, reprinted and circulated a pamphlet by Dr. W. C. Minchin of Dublin, entitled "The Treatment, Prevention and Cure of Tuberculosis With Oleum Allii." The Toronto physician had treated and cured his brother, who was far gone with the dread disease. "Oleum allii" is merely the scientific name for oil of garlic. Dr. Leo Summers, an eminent New York physician, makes the statement that garlic is responsible for the relative immunity of Jews and Italians to tuberculosis, an immunity that has been so marked as to excite the wonder of the medical world. Indeed, it is a well-known fact that tuberculosis is almost unknown in Italy, where garlic is consumed almost as freely as we consume onions. In Italy physicians treat tuberculosis with infusions of and poultices of garlic as a matter of course, and in the country mothers give their children garlic syrup at the first indication of a cold. Dr. Maurice Fishberg, in discussing the prevalence of tuberculosis among Jews of New York, said: "The Jews always have been garlic-eating people and almost immune from tuberculosis, but when they come to America they cease to eat garlic and become susceptible to the disease." The Illinois Board of Health says: Certain climates are preferred for certain consumptives, but the opinion of leading authorities now is that no special climate has a specific curative power for consumption. Climate in consumption is a will-o'-the-wisp. It is the end of the rainbow with its pot of gold. It is ever just a little beyond. The out-of-doors treatment at home is advised for these reasons: Separation from friends depresses the patient; the expense of a journey is a serious drain on resources; the fatigue of a long journey is bad; lack of home comforts handicap efforts to effect a cure; even if the disease is cured, the patient may not be able to return home; if the patient must work, he can find no occupation.

LAW POINTS.

X. Y. Z.—Phone License Collector, city hall.

CHILD.—Custody of child of separated couple can only be settled by a court.

BOX 56, (Illinois)—Unless occupied as a homestead, the same cannot be claimed as such, nor the exemptions applying thereto.

A. B. C.—In Pennsylvania, widow of man who dies without a will takes her entire estate, up to $5000, and half the residue.

MISS E. T.—Before buying store, take the precaution to have all requirements of bulk sales law complied with and records examined as to any possible chattel mortgages.

WORRIED.—You might have a talk with Prosecuting Attorney, Municipal Courts building, Fourteenth and Market, about the hotel woman who slandered you.

H. O. M.—While the letter is an admission, still, the question of whether he can be held is another matter, as any leniency or otherwise on your part may discharge him of liability.

TENANT.—Under the facts, you are justified in vacating and not paying rent further; be careful to keep the letter referring to his promises, so if sued you can show you were justified in doing so.

MRS. JONES.—The law compels your husband to support you, but does not specify whether this means that he shall not give you enough food and clothing. People who marry must expect "worse" as well as "better."

J. M.—Appeal can be dismissed; if person dies his administrator would carry on the case; if no appearance is made, case would be dropped. If judgment is sustained and sufficient funds of the estate of a deceased person are on hand, payment can be expected; claim should be presented to administrator and subsequently allowed and classed by Probate Court.

SLEEPLESSNESS.

J. B. K.—Many drink a little hot milk at night as an aid to slumber. See that your room is well aired, keep your feet warm and stop all thinking as soon as your head touches the pillow. Some use hop pillows; others drink hop beer, made as follows: Take 6 pounds malt, 1 package hops, 10 gallons water. Boil 1 hour; add 1 quart best molasses, 2 pounds brown sugar. When lukewarm, dissolve into it 3 yeast cakes (compressed). Put in barrel, leaving bung out for 24 hours, then bung tight. It will be ready for use in two days. A sufferer states that she was cured of sleeplessness by eating a raw onion sandwich just before going to bed. Less disagreeable to some people is another sandwich cure which has been vouched for by an enthusiast. It is made by buttering thickly two slices of bread, then sprinkling them with cayenne pepper. These sandwiches should be eaten just before getting into bed, and sleep is said to quickly follow. Hot water treatment is advocated by many. It consists of putting the feet into water as hot as can be borne before going to bed, also to drink a cup of hot water. A curious cure has recently been reported. A piece of calico, about 18 inches wide and 2¼ yards long, is rolled up like a bandage, and a third of it wrung out of cold water. The leg is then bandaged with this, the wet parts being carefully covered by several layers of the dry part, as well as by a layer of gutta-percha tissue, and a stocking drawn on over the whole. This causes dilation of the vessels of the leg, thus diminishing the blood in the head and producing sleep. One writer says: It is mattress and pillow that are responsible for half insomnia. The ideal resting place is the ground, with its natural covering of soft grass. The next most comfortable bed is a wood floor overlaid with a soft carpet or rug. The yielding mattress does not rest the muscles, which remain all night in a condition of alternating relaxation and tension. When the sleeping place is fixed and hard they adapt themselves to it and remain quiescent. Furthermore, the spine and nerve centers of the bed sleeper are exposed all night to the heat of the mattress, which is the cause of the sense of enervation so commonly felt, when one awakens. The pillow is even more enervating than the mattress. A well-stuffed saddle, whose cleft center permits the circulation of air, soft, yet unyielding, is the ideal head rest. Next to it, perhaps, should be placed the Japanese neck block.

MISS IGNORANT.—New linen should always be laundered before it is used.

C. W.—To become telephone operator apply to office of either telephone company.

MARJORIE.—Try asking Harvey lunchroom, Union Station, about waitresses going West.

GEOG.—U. S. money and stamps are used in Hawaii, Porto Rico and Alaska. Philippines have their own money and stamps.

X. X.—For Illinois cheese-making and creameries you might try writing Courier, Elgin, Ill., inclosing envelope stamped and bearing your address.

MR. GREEN.—We would suggest that you consult the several song stores here for the parody on the song "Mother." We have no recollection of having heard it.

E. S.—For sore feet, give your canary larger perch, clean feet, and apply vaseline. As to newly hatched dying in a day, too many hatchings in a season make birds weak. There should never be more than three hatchings in a season. There are canaries that kill their offspring unnoticed.

ATHLETE.—What is the most strengthening sport for one person would have disastrous results for another. A person who is not strong would find walking beneficial. Another person might find tennis a very strengthening game, while still a third would find that golf is the proper game for exercise. You will understand that as an abstract question nobody can determine what is the most strengthening sport. Other conditions and qualifications must enter before what is the most strengthening sport can be ascertained.

Chapter LIX.

OCT. 14.—I looked at Ned across the breakfast table this morning and asked:

"Can't we have a holiday?"

The mellow autumn sunlight was pouring into the room and I longed to get outdoors.

"Sure we can," Ned agreed heartily. "Nobody on my list is very ill just now, and I'll telephone Folker and ask him to make the two or three calls I had scheduled for today. What shall we do to celebrate?"

"I've planned it all," I told him, happily. "We'll go to the Zoo. We'll play that I'm 9 and you're 12, and we'll walk around and see everything and have our lunch up there—buns and milk and ice cream cones."

Ned laughed outright, but his eyes were sympathetic and kind. "You big kid!" he commented. "You never will grow up. But I don't care. We'll take the subway to One Hundred and Eightieth street, as soon as you're ready. Two children, you know, wouldn't be allowed to go off in an automobile."

Like Happy Children.

As we strolled into the Zoological Park an hour later I gasped with delight. The frosts of fall had touched all the trees with crimson, gold, russet and orange. The long walks seemed aflame. Yet the air was so warm and soft that I felt glad I had not brought my sport coat, as Ned had suggested.

This was the first time I had been to the Zoo since I was a little girl, and Ned had not visited it for many years. As we made our trip on a week day there was no crowd. We saw everything—the bears, the great cats, the lovely, soft-eyed deer, and impish monkeys. We decided that after all we did want a lunch more substantial than that I had suggested, but, nevertheless, we bought ice cream cones and sucked them, childishly, as we strolled about.

In the afternoon we were resting on a bench beside one of the shaded walks. Suddenly I noticed a strange-looking man approaching us. His shoulders were stooped, and he walked swiftly, restlessly, peering from side to side as he came. When he drew nearer I saw that his face was gray-white, the cheeks sunken, dark, shadowy, hollows underneath the eyes.

I glanced at Ned. "What is the matter with that poor man?" I asked so softly that he could not possibly hear me.

The Drug Fiend.

NED was studying him with an expression of mingled sympathy and some other emotion I could not quite name. He waited, before he spoke, until the man had gone past.

"He is a drug fiend," my husband told me then. "He's been on the dope probably for years. And he's very badly hit by the latest law on habit-forming drugs.

"There are scores of men like that, all over New York. If the addict to morphine or heroin is shut off, sharply and absolutely, he suffers tortures. The poor chaps who can't beg, borrow or steal the stuff, under the new regulations, are in horrible shape. Many of them can't afford to go to the private sanitariums and the city hospitals already are crowded."

"How dreadful!" I exclaimed. The glory of my day seemed dimmed. "And how their wives and families must suffer," I added.

"The wives of such as our friend who just passed usually are happy elsewhere," Ned said, rather bitterly. "They have gone back to mother, or to Reno. I can't say that I blame them, however. Mollie, would you desert me if I were a drug fiend?"

I looked at him. Of course, he was smiling. But I shivered.

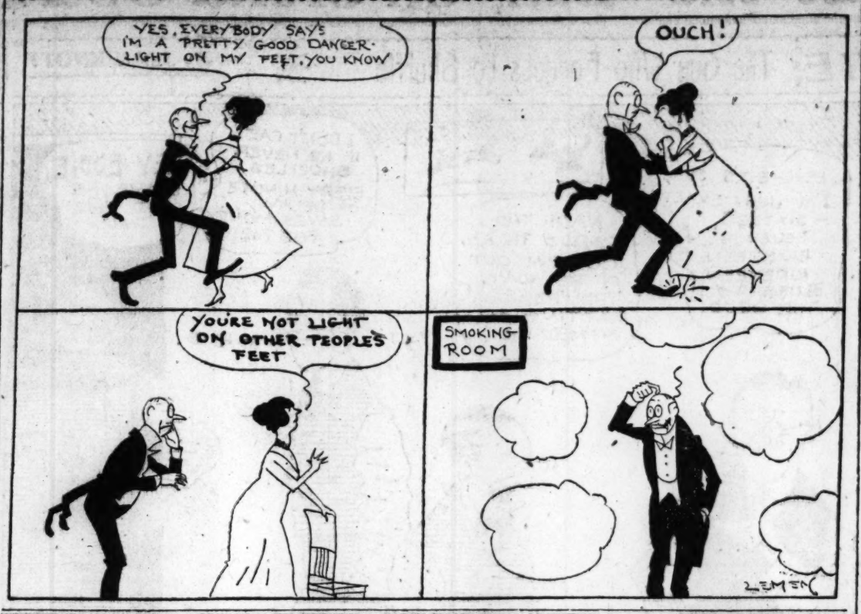

"Ned," I urged, "don't say that sort of thing even in joke. Don't! You know that whatever you were or did I should stand by you. But I can't bear even to think of such horrible things.

"I know, little girl, and Im sorry," said Ned, tenderly. "God bless you!"

War, Once Foe, Now Friend of Beards

WHILE the present war threatens to bring about a revival of the vogue of the beard, it was an ancient war which caused the adoption of the general practice of shaving. Alexander the Great ordered his soldiers to lop off their beards for the military purpose of depriving their enemies of the opportunity to use the whiskers as a handle in a tug of war. The fashion thus inaugurated in ancient Greece continued until the reign of Justinian, when luxuriant whiskers again became the thing. Most of the Greek philosophers "set great store" by their beards, and Diogenes often asked beardless men if they were ashamed of their manhood.

The Romans commenced shaving in the fifth century B. C., and Scipio Africanus is said to have been the first Roman to submit to the daily ministrations of the barber. The Roman Emperors shaved until the time of Hadrian, who permitted his beard to grow to conceal a bad scar.

All of the ancient inhabitants of Central and Western Europe went unshaven, although Julius Caesar says the Britons only allowed the mustache to grow, and cut off the chin foliage. Early in English history the clergy of England were compelled to shave.

The golden age of the beard was probably that of the reign of Henry IV of France, when the man who could not grow whiskers was regarded disgraced.

There is a new railroad being built in Switzerland 6 per cent of whose entire length is over bridges, while 15½ per cent runs through tunnels.

In 1515 the first school of artillery was organized by the Venetians, and a few years later was emulated by Spain.

While You Wait for the Doctor

What Physicians Tell Us to Do. Burns and Scalds.

PERHAPS the most useful of all knowledge is to know just what to do and how to do it when accidents or sudden illness occur. Of course, in any alarming crisis the first thing a sensible person should do is to send for the doctor, but it is often impossible to get him immediately, and sometimes a severe illness or deformity can be avoided, or even life itself can be saved, if a little intelligent aid is given without delay.

Burns are one of the commonest and most painful of all injuries. The reason they cause such excruciating agony is because the skin that covers the ends of the nerves has been burned away, thus exposing them to contact with the air. So it follows naturally that the first thing to do is to give them a protective covering. Oily substances are the best for this purpose. Cover the burn with a soft, perfectly clean piece of old linen or thin cotton, wet with olive oil or carron oil. The latter is made by mixing linseed oil and lime water, half and half, and is the best of all first aids for burns. It is a good plan to keep a small bottle of it always on the medicine shelf, so that it will be at hand when wanted. If you don't happen to have any oil in the house, don't sit and suffer if you burn yourself or let the patient do so. Break an egg in a cup and apply the white to the burn. You will find this quite soothing. Or if you can't find the eggs, don't wait for them, but dissolve a level teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda (cooking soda) in a glass of water and wet the bandage in the solution and cover the burn. This will stop the painful smarting sensation.

If the clothing adheres to a burn never pull it away. This will greatly increase the injury. Cut the cloth from around it and leave the burn alone until the doctor arrives if you can get him within a short time. If not, the burn can be soaked in warm water at about 100 degrees Fahrenheit or a little less until the cloth comes away easily and the place can be dressed with oil.

Scalds should be treated in very much the same way as burns. They are serious or not, according to the extent of the surface involved. In mild scalds leave the blisters alone for 24 hours, but if the skin is badly scalded and the blisters are very much raised above the surface, prick them at the edge with a clean needle and gently squeeze out the liquid contained. Be careful not to injure the loose skin covering them, as it is needed as a protector to keep the scald from getting raw. Give them the same dressing as advised for burns.

If the sufferer feels faint as the result of the shock it is perfectly safe to give half a teaspoonful of aromatic spirits of ammonia in a third of a glass of water. This equalizes the circulation and assists the heart's action. It should always be kept in the house.

The Origin of Finger Rings

FROM the earliest period of civilized relationships, the finger ring has been accepted as the symbol of fidelity and truth in the fulfillment of a pledge, and for the greater part of 2000 years it was used as the most convenient means for conveying the signet of the wearer.

According to Herodotus, the wearing of finger rings originated with the Babylonians, the ring of those times being of iron. That the custom was gradually transmitted from the Babylonians to the Hellenes is certain, the later Greek historians describing minutely the richly chased gold rings worn as talismans by warriors on their departure for the wars, while at the end of another century every freedman in Greece possessed a signet.

Coming down to the Roman era, we find the freedmen, in imitation of the Babylonians and Spartans, bearing their iron signet as evidence of the simplicity of their lives, the custom prevailing down to the last days of the republic. Ambassadors alone were permitted to wear the gold ring, this privilege, under the influence of the splendors of the Augustan era, being extended to Senators, Chief Magistrates and Equites. Tiberius, however, limited the wearing of the gold ring to the possessors of large property qualifications. Severus conceded the distinction to all Roman soldiers, and under Justinian all citizens, freedmen or slaves, enjoyed this right, silver rings being worn by freedmen and iron by slaves.

The third and fourth centuries of the Christian era saw the first use of the ring as a religious symbol, the monogram of Christ being the most revered device, and this custom has in one form or another continued down to the present day.

In the Middle Ages the signet ring was held to be of the greatest importance in religious, legal, commercial or private affairs. Among betrothed couples of the fifteenth, sixteenth and eighteenth centuries many rings were inscribed with words supposedly of talismanic power, such as Caspar, Melchoir and Balthasar, the names of the Magi, while in the nineteenth century nearly all engagement rings bore the familiar "Mizpath" ("The Lord watch between me and thee when we are absent one from the other").

In direct contradiction to the ring of beneficent influence is the poison ring, dear to the hearts of all lovers of the weird, blue lights, the melodramatic.

Historic examples of this sinister agent are the ring containing a hollow bezel with which Hannibal, pursued by the Romans, ended his life at Libyssa; the ring of Demosthenes, the anello della morte of the Borgias which carried a secret point made to work with a spring, this point communicating with a receptacle for poison in a cavity behind, in such a way that the murderer could give the fatal scratch while shaking hands with an enemy.

The motor fuel problem will be solved by the use of alcohol, cheaply extracted from sawdust and "black strap" molasses, is the prediction made by chemists at the meeting of the American Chemical Society in New York.

The Legion of Honor

THE famous French order known as the Legion of Honor was instituted by Napoleon Bonaparte, when he was First Consul, 114 years ago. Although this order confers honors upon distinguished civil servants of the State and eminent benefactors of humanity, it is provided that three-fifths of all the medals awarded must go to the officers and men of the army and navy.

Since the outbreak of the war thousands of medals of the Legion have been awarded to soldiers and sailors and public servants. There are now five classes, the Grand Cross being the highest. Its recipients are numbered by hundreds, whereas there are thousands of medals of the lower classes now being worn.

The badge of the Legion of Honor is a five-rayed white enameled star, bearing on the obverse side a female head and the words "Republique Francaise," and on the reverse side two crossed flags and the words "Honneur et Patrie."

Many British and American citizens have received the medal of the Legion of Honor, and since the war it has also been conferred upon the military leaders of all of the allies of France.

Persistent Vision.

IF you spin a quarter and watch it you will see both sides of the coin at the same time. This is explained by the fact that the senses of man retain impressions a little time. It is, indeed, the explanation of motion pictures. Your vision persists and your perception of objects is continued after the object itself has disappeared. This allows you to see two parts of a thing—even such opposites as the front and back—simultaneously.

Household Hints.

RUSTY irons should be heated, rubbed on a piece of beeswax tied in linen and then with a coarse flannel cloth sprinkled with household salt. This will give a polish like glass.

When a kettle is badly burned do not fill it with water, but set it aside to cool, then put in a handful of washing soda and water and allow it to boil for an hour or more.

Paint, no matter how hard and dry, can be taken out of woolen clothing by using a solution of equal parts of ammonia and turpentine. Saturate the spot two or three times, then wash out with soapsuds.

When potting plants put a piece of coarse muslin over the hole in the pot before putting in the bits of stone and sod, which keeps the drainage good. The muslin prevents the earth from washing away.

To cut fresh bread, dip your knife in boiling water and you will be able to cut the thinnest slice of bread from a fresh loaf.

To make a light sponge cake take one cupful of flour, one cupful of sugar, two eggs. Mix flour well together, then add eggs, well beaten. Beat all together and bake in a hot oven about 15 minutes.

When popping corn, put in enough corn to cover the bottom of wire popper, then drench with water just before placing over the fire. Every grain will pop, and much more quickly than without the added moisture.

Pikers Will Have Weight Advantage in Annual Game With Missouri Team Today

Coach Edmunds' Squad to Start Battle Will Average 171 Pounds and the Tigers 166—Betting on Contest Is Very Light.

COLUMBIA, MO., Oct. 14.

COLUMBIA is in gala attire today and the occasion is the annual football battle between the Missouri University Tigers and the Pikers of Washington University on Rolla Field. This season's contest carries with it greater interest than former Tiger-Pikeway games have aroused and to a traveler in the mid-State town the preparations rival those for the Kansas game.

Missouri alumni and Washington followers started pouring in yesterday afternoon, while this morning's trains brought to tiger-town hosts of visitors for the game that will go a great way to settle the State gridiron supremacy. A large mass meeting was held by the Bengal student body last night, while the Pikeway adherents, although in lesser numbers, gave vent to their enthusiasm with no less vehemence. Betting on the contest is lighter than had been expected. Large sums of Tiger money had been collected to place on even terms, but when the St. Louisans demanded 2-to-1 odds, Missourians were loath to become takers.

Betting on Game Light.

Both Missouri and Washington will take the field this afternoon with the strongest lineups that might be chosen from either squad. The day opened up bright and brisk, and the spirit incited by the contest should make this affair quite some fray.

According to the lineups given out by Coaches Edmunds and Schulte, the boys from the Pikeway will have a weight advantage of some five pounds to the player. Washington will tip the beam at 171, while the Bengals average 166.

The Washington front will present somewhat a different aspect than the one which started the game with Roso Poly last Saturday. Reichard has been nominated for the quarterback position in lieu of Shanley, who will replace Dawson at fullback. Grossman and Feelsch will swap stations, the former holding down right tackle and the 1914 Manual star right guard. Edmunds will stand pat on the remainder of the lineup.

Harold Haines, the Tiger halfback who performs the kicking role for Schulte, has recovered from his injured knee and will start the game. McMillan, an East St. Louis boy, has been nominated as Haines' running mate, while Rider will go to fullback. Brust, a regular end, is still on the injured list, but will be in uniform and ready to take Wilder's place should that action be necessary.

Haines Will Start Game.

Those of the two teams who contested in the 1915 Tiger-Pikeway game are for Washington, King, Meyer, Hachman, Gregesman, Wetzel and Busiek; for Missouri, Giltner, McAnaw, Muir, Preston, Hamilton, Stankowski and Rider.

It is interesting to note that the Tiger captain will adorn the bench when the starting whistle is blown tomorrow. Captain Harry Lansing has been unable to hold up under the aggression of Paul Hamilton for the center position, and must acquiesce to the Sedalia star.

Soothsayers about the camps predict an open attack for both teams tomorrow, inasmuch as the two coaches have lent their efforts during the past week to this style of play. Shanley of Washington and Haines can hardly be called reliable punters, making it quite a certainty that the contest would not develop into much of a kicking duel.

Open Battle Expected.

Coach Edmunds led the Mound City squad 23 strong into town at noon yesterday, while Hachman appeared on the scene this morning. Shortly after arriving the Pikers took short, snappy signal drill on Rollins Field. They then took a machine tour about the neighboring country. The Tigers also indulged in a light practice.

The line-up:

Washington.	Positions.	Missouri.
Kling (165)	Left end	Giltner (159)
Hachman (198)	Left tackle	Muir (188)
Peters (180)	Left guard	McAnaw (171)
Wetzel (180)	Center	Hamilton (175)
Foelsch (175)	Right guard	Preston (178)
Grossman (188)	Right tackle	VanDyne (180)
Meyer (160)	Right end	Wilder (168)
Reichard (135)	Quarterback

Pikers Have Sailed Under False Colors for Over 15 Seasons

THAT Washington University has for years been using the wrong colors was brought out recently in a letter written by Acting Chancellor Hall to the editor of Student Life, a publication at the school. The letter follows:

Within the last few years a misconception has arisen in regard to the colors of Washington University. I am inclosing herewith samples (in felt) of the official colors, which, as you will see, are green and red, not "myrtle and maroon," as commonly given.

I send these samples to you so that you may be informed in regard to the matter yourself, and will ask you to display them permanently (together with this letter) where the students may see the correct colors.

On any occasion where the colors are to be used every effort should be made to match these samples as nearly as possible, in whatever material is desired.

Very truly yours,
FREDERIC A. HALL,
Acting Chancellor.

The correct colors of the school are the shades of red and green corresponding with the red and green of signal flags.

First Big Battles of the Season, Scheduled Today, Should be Close

BELOW are the most important games scheduled in various sections of the country today. It is too early in the season to obtain any reliable line on some of the elevens. But enough is known to indicate the general trend of the battles. The "dope" indicates the following results:

Chick Wright Arrives Here to Help Hoppe Prepare for Match With George Sutton

Chick Wright, the coast billiard star, who will make the tour of the country with champion Willie Hoppe this year, arrived here last night to help prepare Hoppe for the coming championship match with G. Butler Sutton of Chicago, scheduled to be played at the Moolah Temple, Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1.

Young Jake Schaefer, the Chicago player, was here a few days last week but returned to the Windy City. He will be back next week and remain here until the tour is started.

Purdue Eleven Crippled.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 14.—Purdue and Wabash football teams met here this afternoon with the Wabash men confident and the Purdue men doubtful of the outcome. Four or five of Purdue's regular men were unable to enter the game because of injuries or illness.

Last Night's Fights

Buffalo—Jerry Cole, welterweight, defeated Jimmy Tigue of Scranton in 10 rounds. Tigue took the count of nine in the first round and was hanging on at the bell. He came back strong, but weakened again in the last two rounds.

Philadelphia—Mickey Sheridan, Chicago welterweight, fought Young Erne to a six-round draw at the Lincoln Club.

Boston—Finney Boyle of Lowell was given the decision over Willie Jones of Brooklyn at the end of a 12-round bout. Boyle had a big advantage at the end of every round.

New York—Harry Wills of New Orleans stopped George Cotton of Pittsburg in the fifth round. Cotton was being so badly punished the referee saved him from a knockout. Wills weighed 210 pounds and Cotton 203.

BANDY MEETS WORTHY FOE IN "BAT" REDDY

Pair Are Scheduled to Go Twelve Rounds in Feature at South Broadway Tonight.

By Harry S. Sharpe,

Referee for the Future City, and the Post-Dispatch's Boxing Authority.

When "Sailor" Jerabek was knocked out by "Young" Denny and Jimmy Murphy was decisively outpointed by Jabez White, members of the South Broadway Athletic Club received a shock that left them a little less noisy and confident, for Jerabek and Murphy were the pugilistic stars of the S. B. A. C.

The matchmaker of the club had talked of a bout with "Kid" Williams for Murphy and Jack Britton for Jerabek. Now all is changed, and Matt Sofka mournfully relates that had he known how good "Young" Denny is, Jerabek never would have boxed him. That admission puts Jerabek out of the high-class running, and Murphy's defeat by White does the same thing for Murphy.

Now comes "Kid" Bandy, who will try and retrieve honors for the club by defeating "Battling" Reddy of New York in a 12-round bout at 126 pounds in the club's arena tonight. It will be some job. One thing can be said for the club: It picks no "easy marks" for its pugilistic favorites.

Bandy Must Come Through.

Reddy is all fighter. Bandy is nearly all fighter, but has an advantage in being just a little of a boxer, too. Both can be rougher than the Marquis of Queensberry approved of when he wrote his rules. Reddy has had more valuable ring experience, but in a rough-and-tumble fight Bandy would be choice in the betting. All of which makes it probable that Referee Eddie Randall will have to rule with an iron will tonight or there will be much trouble.

"Red" Johnston, who meets Willie Colona in the semi-final for 8 rounds at 116 pounds, will have to handle himself with care, for Colona is too clever to be trifled with and Johnston must come through without injury, because on next Monday night he is scheduled to box tough little Jimmy Curtis at Jefferson Barracks.

Jack Callahan and Pete Macklin will open the show tonight with a 6-round bout at 125 pounds.

Dundee an Impressive Boxer.

Johnny Dundee, the lightweight, who engages Jimmy Hanlon at the Future City A. C. on next Tuesday night is an impressive athlete in his gymnasium workouts because of the swiftness with which he moves, his splendid judgment of distance, and his apparent strength. But some good judges of boxing who watched him on last Thursday afternoon detected a fault in his style that will be promptly criticized in St. Louis, where the Queensberry rules are more strictly enforced than in many other places.

Dundee did much hitting while holding by catching the glove of his sparring partners under one arm and holding it there, at the same time hitting with the other hand. Furthermore, after holding in this manner he would suddenly let go and hit a punch with the same arm with which he had been holding. This is a plain violation of the Queensberry rules, and if he does it in the ring as he did in the gymnasium against Young Leach Cross and Paddy Kelly, it should surely be counted against him. Dundee is fast and clever enough to make unnecessary this rough-and-tumble style and it is hoped that in his bout with Hanlon it will be avoided.

Boxers coming here too often plead ignorance of "the rules in St. Louis." These same boxers are acquainted with the Queensberry rules, or should be, and any excuse for deliberately violating them should not be tolerated. Instead of referees being told to "let them fight," the cry should be "make them observe the rules." This will not detract from the merits of the bout between willing boxers, and there should be action enough to satisfy anyone.

RESTA FAVORED IN 250 MILE AUTO RACE TODAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Fifteen thousand dollars in prizes will be distributed to those of the 21 automobile drivers who come within the prize list of the great American automobile race, which is staged at the speedway today. The race is over a distance of 250 miles.

Fast time is expected, as several of the drivers have made the circuit of the two-mile bowl in "tuning up trials" at a rate of more than 100 miles an hour.

The drivers who will take part in the race are Resta, De Palma, Aiken, Rickenbacker, Klein, D'Alene, Henderson, Galvin, Hughes, Lewis, Rawlings, Burt, Henning, Duzane, Wilcox, Cable, Milton, Mulford, Vail, Chevrolet and Oetenig.

Resta is picked by Chicagoans to win the big race in view of the fact that he has won every event staged in this city.

Allan Sothron, who will make his annual debut with the Browns as usual next spring, won his eighth straight for Portland the other day. Looks like first division.

Piker-Tiger Game Today Has No Bearing on Title

Nebraska Already Has It Wrapped Up, According to Scores Thus Far Made by Missouri Valley Teams—Illinois Faces Defeat in Colgate Game.

By John E. Wray.

TWO brands of Tiger football will be given the gaff this afternoon. At Missouri the Columbia Tigers will be put through an ordeal by Washington, which thinks it has the grip to twist the enemy's caudal appendage. At Nassau Field the Princeton Tigers will face a team that defeated Harvard one week ago. Enough said.

The Missouri proposition will have no bearing on the Valley championship. That is to say, neither can land the title, even though it wins today's contest. For only a caterpiller trust can hope to run over the great machine which Nebraska has in the field this year and which has already proven its right to high rank by utterly crushing Drake, 53—0.

The Missouri Valley Conference championship is as good as settled now, unless a railroad wreck wipes out the Cornhuskers.

It's Different in the East.

PRINCETON, however, is as yet a strong factor in the East. Its future may be glimpsed when the shades of night settle down on the battle field of tomorrow. If Princeton humbles Tufts by a good score, it will have earned its right to hope for something more than defeat at the hands of Yale's splendid team.

Tufts showed Harvard SOME football. It has an eleven that is practically a veteran team, many members of it having been under the same coach two years, and some of them longer than that. It works with automatic precision and only superior native strength, coupled with equally finished play, can hope to down the Medford eleven.

That Harvard is weak this year beyond the efforts of even Haughton to redeem it, seems a certainty. How weak it is will be revealed by the showing of the Princetonians against the Massachusetts team tomorrow.

Many Good Games Saturday.

FOOTBALL locally will be of the high school and practice game variety. St. Louis U. plays Southern Illinois—ordinarily a weak foe.

But elsewhere in the country it is a big day.

The most important games in the West will be the Indiana-Chicago Big Nine conference clash and the intersectional game between Colgate and Illinois.

Chicago defeated Indiana last year by a solitary touchdown. But the Maroons' defeat Saturday by an obscure eleven, Carleton, has discouraged its supporters. Indiana is in charge of Coach Stiehm, formerly of Nebraska and the Hoosier hopes are nothing if not inflated.

Illinois has a rattling good eleven, this year. It always has. Colgate, too, has a good team.

Colgate defeated the University of Maine 28—0 last Saturday, and Susquehanna college the previous week, 34—0. Minor schools in the East are seldom much below the grade of the Valley conference teams, wherever they are found. So that it will be a surprise if Colgate does not put up a stiff fight—and none at all if it wins.

Lehigh a Worthy Foe.

SEVERAL good games are on the Eastern schedule. Yale opposes Lehigh. Last year the Blue was lucky to skin through with a one-point victory over the Pennsylvanians. Lehigh has a good team, this year. Its first game it stopped Ursinus, 21—0, and last Saturday it defeated Albright, 61—3, the exact score by which Yale humbled Virginia.

Albright, however, can hardly compare with Virginia in strength, unless the Southern eleven has fallen below its former standards.

Harvard opposes North Carolina, the team which Princeton last week wined out by a 29—0 score. This will afford another line of comparison between Harvard and Princeton, although the Crimson club will undoubtedly have improved 20 per cent since last week.

Cornell is playing its second game against a New England college team, Williams. This school is not in Cornell's class.

Navy Must Go Some.

ONE of the day's heart breakers will be the battle between the Navy and the University of Pittsburg elevens. Last year Pitt smothered the Navy and is credited with having almost as good a team this year. But the Navy's defeat of Georgetown indicates it, too, has a strong football machine. Georgetown was expected to put a whale of a team into the field this year.

The Navy will probably not be humbled by any 40-point score tomorrow.

MRS. STEEDMAN LEADS MISS KAISER IN FINAL

State Golf Champion Is One Down to Opponent at the End of Nine Holes.

Mrs. E. H. Steedman was leading Miss Laurie Kaiser at the end of the first nine holes of the final round for the city golf championship, played at the Country Club links this morning.

Going to the tenth hole Mrs. Steedman was 1 up. Mrs. Steedman went out in 44 and Miss Kaiser in 45.

BILLIKEN SUBS WILL GET WORKOUT TODAY

Painter Expects to Use Many Men Against Southern Illinois Normal Team.

Several changes may be made in the forward line of St. Louis University's football team for its second game of the season this afternoon at Robison Field, where Southern Illinois Normal School of Carbondale will be entertained.

Coach Painter was so undecided about the makeup of his team that he announced two men for every position but right guard, right tackle and right halfback. His lineup, tentatively selected, follows:

Left end, Downey and Graves; left tackle, Joern and Muenzer; center, Cavagnaro and Cuthberson; right guard, O'Donnell; right tackle, Gallagher; right end, O'Keefe and Kennedy; quarter, Flug and Dorin; left halfback, Wynn and Gorman; fullback, Weckenmann and Harbrecht; right halfback, Manning.

The Southern Illinois Normals have played no team of consequence so far, but is reported to have a heavy team, fairly experienced. The Billikens anticipate nothing but victory, but unless the machinery runs smoother than it did last week the blue jersey boys will have a tough time piling up a big score.

However, Painter has ample time in which to develop his team to its highest speed. After the Southern Illinois Normals he will tackle Illinois College, a team that shouldn't be much trouble to a varsity squad.

MEMPHIS TEAM NOT TO BATTLE LOCALS SUNDAY

The Illinois Centrals of Memphis, who were scheduled to play the Yucatans of this city in a double-header at Fairground tomorrow afternoon, will not come, it was announced today by Billy Morgan. The Yucatans do not wish to go through the expense of bringing the club here again, so called off the contest. The Yucatans won last Sunday by a top-heavy score.

Instead, the Yucatans will tackle the old Wolffs, winners of the Municipal Baseball Association championship in 1915.

OLD Robby had an army of some twenty-seven men;
He marched them down to Boston and he marched them back again;
He started out with whoop and shout to bring the bacon home,
But came back empty handed and he never more will roam.

He went and bit off more than he could chew;
Now indigestion, beyond a question,
Has got old Robby-obby-obby-oo!

Charles Ebbets had a ballyard that he labeled "Ebbets Field;"
And when he won the pennant Charley's joy was unconcealed,
The seats were large and roomy and he thought it would be nice
To charge the fans five dollars, but they didn't have the price.

'Twas Mr. Ebbets, 'twas Mr. Ebbets.
At five a throw he hoped to fill his stands;
But now he's gloomy, his seats so roomy,
Turned out to be a drug upon his hands.

B. JOHNSON SAYS HIGH ADMISSION PRICES MUST GO

Real Supporters of Baseball Are Unable to Go to World's Series Contests.

SPORTSMANSHIP WANTED

Owner Who Places Financial Gains First Must Go, Announces Czar of A. L.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Exorbitant prices for admission to future world's series baseball games will not be tolerated, declares President B. B. Johnson of the American League.

"The world's series as conducted at present," said Johnson, before leaving yesterday for Chicago, "threatens to jeopardize the fair name of the game in public opinion. We can never stand for that. Baseball is clean; it must be kept clean. Year by year prices have advanced until now the world's series has assumed a mercenary character which was never intended and should never be tolerated. There is some housecleaning to be done and it's going to start where the most dust of discontent has gathered.

"I have talked with my colleagues of the American League and I think they fully appreciate my point. I have always been strongly opposed to the increase in the world's series price of admission that now has approached an exorbitant extreme, in my opinion. I am sure of the support of my colleagues. I think I can safely promise fandom, on behalf of the American League, that a scale of prices more just to the purse of the great general public which supports the game will prevail in the future.

High Prices Will Go.

"Far better no world's series at all than that fandom should be plucked on conditions tolerated that permit the most humble bleacher patron to feel he is being discriminated against in the annual fall classic. The man who sits day by day through the championship race should not be crowded out of his point of vantage when the greater championship arises, just because someone of more financial ability is willing to pay the increase.

"The world's series must again be made the institution of the real supporter of the game, not a silk stocking event; and it must be done right away. I am for making the series an entertainment for the fans that support the pennant winning teams of the two major leagues. The regular patrons should be given the first chance to secure world's series tickets for themselves, their families and their friends.

"The American League shall advocate a minimum admission. In no case should the price of seats be more than doubled. If there remain among the club owners any who place the financial returns above sportsmanship, they will have to get out. I know the majority of club owners in the National League will co-operate in re-establishing the world's series on a genuine sportsmanship basis."

THE POST-DISPATCH'S DAILY RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

UNCERTAIN TONE TO WALL STREET STOCK MARKET

Some Issues Score Gains While Others Show Losses— Trading Fair.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"If it reflected anything, today's stock market suggested indecision. Without any violent activity, it declined and recovered alternately within the range of a point or so, and ended with the same uncertainty as had marked its beginning. No definite tendency of prices in either direction was apparent.

"Surplus bank reserves decreased $13,600,000, carrying that item down to the lowest figure since that of July 8. The present reserve is, in point of fact, the smallest, with two exceptions, of the present year. This decrease in the surplus was occasioned wholly by outgo of cash; for the loan account, largely, no doubt, in consequence of the Stock Exchange liquidation, was reduced $17,000,000. It was decrease of $20,800,000 in the cash in the banks' own vaults—all of the decrease being gold—which caused the loss in surplus.

"These alternating movements on so large a scale, of reserve money into and out of the banks, have happened so frequently of late, and with so little permanent influence on the reserve position, that they no longer attract the usual attention."

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Caution was the dominant note of today's short session, the market soon reacting from the firm tone of the opening. Leading stocks were under restraint, United States Steel and related issues reflecting constant pressure. Other industrials, equipments, munitions and a few unclassified specialties were lower by 1 to 3 points, with eight for Bethlehem Steel. Among the few neutralizing features were the shipping issues at gains of 1 to almost 3 points, International Paper, Butte and Superior, Continental Can and Studebaker. Rails barely held steady after their strong opening. The closing was irregular. Bonds were lower.

Missouri Corn Crop Estimated at 146,000,000 Bu.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 14.—The corn yield in Missouri this year will be 146,000,000 bushels, according to the monthly crop report of the State Department of Agriculture, made public here today. The condition of the corn is given at 64.8 per cent, with 88 per cent safe from killing frost. The condition given on Sept. 1 was 53.4, and fears were expressed concerning possible frost damage. Little corn has been cribbed, it was announced. The acreage of wheat for the 1917 harvest was placed at 1,700,000, an increase of about 100,000 over the Sept. 1 indication. This, however, is 12 per cent less than that seeded for the 1916 harvest. The Hessian fly is said to be active in early sown wheat in counties south of the Missouri River while, owing to a lack of rain, the ground is hard and a vast amount of work is necessary to get it in shape for seeding.

Wheat futures were irregular to ½c lower in the local market today, largely owing to fear of further submarine developments over Sunday. Argentine weather reports were bullish and Liverpool cables steady, but professionals favored the selling side after a slight bulge at the opening. Dry weather prevailed over the domestic winter wheat belt.

Corn futures ruled slightly easier with wheat, but trade was light. cables were unchanged, but weather fine for curing the new crop. Oats were nominally easier.

December wheat opened at $1.56½, compared with $1.56¼, yesterday's close, sold up to $1.56⅞, then lost to $1.55⅝. May started unchanged at $1.56¼, rose to $1.56⅝, then dropped to $1.55⅝@1.55⅝.

December corn opened unchanged at 76c, sold at 76¼@76⅝, then lost to 75⅝@75⅞c. May started ½c up at 78⅝c, then lost slowly to 78¼@78⅝c. Oats were neglected.

The Liverpool wheat market is dull with a steady undertone. Buyers are firmed in their views and arrivals continue moderate. Spot market unchanged and cargo market nominal, as shippers' offers are few and firmly held. World's shipments to United Kingdom are expected to show an increase, but offers for distant shipments are scarce. Argentine continues mostly dry. Corn was steady, with fewer export offers and strength in the spot situation. Argentine advices continue unfavorable and American offers are firmly held. Import demand is fair.

In Argentine the weather is generally clear and hot. Recent rains were light. Crop estimates are being further reduced. Outlook for oats is unfavorable and wheat is said to be deteriorating daily. Corn prospects also are lowered. In United Kingdom the weather is unfavorable. Foreign arrivals are increasing, but being absorbed.

In France the weather is wet. Field work and late threshing are delayed. Native offers are light and foreign arrivals moderate. Mill holdings are moderate.

New York reported some business in what and government inquiries, but the amount actually worked to was light. It was understood a fair business in wheat was put through this past week, in fact, much larger than reported, due to the filling of old freights and on account of the British commandeering action.

A Buenos Ayres correspondent reported moderate general rains, but Northern losses through drought and locusts important.

Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 80,000 bushels for one day.

Rosario wheat opened strong, 1½c to 2c higher; Buenos Ayres was ½c higher and corn ½c to 1c higher.

Minneapolis reported the cash wheat market dull, with contract in poor demand and too much wheat standing around unsold.

Kansas City cash wheat was 1c lower; corn and oats unchanged.

Clearances of wheat today were 918,000 bu; corn, 52,000 bu; oats, 637,000 bu; flour, 45,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 1,121,000 bu.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Cash wheat was unchanged to slightly lower.

Cash corn was steady to ½c up and in good demand.

COTTON MARKET AGAIN SELLS AT A NEW RECORD LEVEL

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 11 to 13 points today, with January and later months making new high records for the season, on rather aggressive support from recent prominent buyers.

There was heavy realizing around 17.70c for December and 17.65 for January, however, with prices later showing reactions of several points from the best.

The census figures on supply and distribution showing domestic consumption for September of 529,227 bales lint and 61,719 bales linters indicated a slight falling off as compared with August, but seemed to attract no special attention and a good part of the early trading was attributed to evening up for over the week end. Dec. sold off to 17.51c and Jan. to 17.48c before the end of the first hour.

Later fluctuations were irregular, with the close steady, net one point lower to four points higher, December being relatively easy.

REVIEWS OF NEW BOOKS

LATIN AMERICAN TRADE.

A GREAT deal of discussion has been going on about Latin American trade and the possibility of the United States getting some of it, particularly at this time. Those acquainted with conditions there, however, feel that it takes a certain sort of preparation to do business with persons of the Latin temperament. European business houses have taken this into account in dealing with those countries. Some Americans have done so. Among these is Ernst B. Filsinger of St. Louis, president of an important shoe manufacturing concern. He has made a first hand study of trade conditions in those countries. He has traveled extensively and at frequent intervals and has gained both recognition and friendships in Latin-American countries. It is, therefore, fitting that he should have written "Exporting to Latin America."

The book covers every possible phase of the subject. It is written by a business man for business men. All theoretical discussions are left out of the volume. Only the practical phases of the subject are given, in a clear and concise manner.

Dr. Leo S. Rowe, professor of economics in Pennsylvania University, in his preface to the book, says:

The clear and systematic presentation of the conditions necessary to the development of foreign trade made by Mr. Filsinger means a real national service, a service which will be appreciated by our merchants and manufacturers.

In the back of the book there is a great deal of information which will be found of value. The information given thus in the appendix alone is calculated to make a valuable hand book and therefore enhances the usefulness of the book. (Appletons.)

WEARISOME "RADICAL" FICTION.

WHY did Ethelyn Leslie Huston call her book "The Towers of Ilium"? This is not an important question, but it is about the most interesting one suggested by the book, which is a prize yawn-compeller. It is supposed to be a "radical" novel, but it could not be more tiresome if it were written in defense of the established order. The heroine glories particularly in having attained the distinction of motherhood outside matrimony, though she did not take the most direct means to that end. Instead, she was regularly married, as she supposed at the time, but she later found that the person performing the ceremony had not been duly authorized. The husband was ready for another ceremony, but she seized the opportunity to shock everyone by refusing, and to defend her decision in pages of platitudes. (Doran.)

NEW BOOKS FOR THE WEEK AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

"THE AUSTRIAN COURT FROM WITHIN"—By Princess Catherine Radziwill. An attempt to "depict a country, a court and a society already in the last stages of decay." The author believes that Austria is but a pawn in the hands of her powerful ally, in whom she will eventually be absorbed.

"REVERIES OVER CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH"—By W. B. Yeats. Fragmentary recollections of the early years of the well-known Irish poet.

"ONE HUNDRED GREAT TEXTS AND THEIR TREATMENT"—By Barton. Texts, illuminative comment by noted preachers and sermon suggestions for general and special occasions.

"WITH THE ZIONISTS IN GALLIPOLI"—By J. H. Patterson. A graphic account of the work of the Zion Mule Corps in the Dardanelles campaign. This corps was composed of 500 Russian Jews, who at the entrance of Turkey into the war fled from Palestine to Egypt and placed their services at the disposal of England.

"THE NULLIFICATION CONTROVERSY IN SOUTH CAROLINA"—By C. S. Boucher. The author is a member of the faculty of Washington University.

"SAILOR AND BEACH COMBER"—By A. Safroni Middleton. Life at sea in Australia and amid the islands of the Pacific.

"JOSEPH FELS— HIS LIFE AND WORK"—By Mary Fels. The distinguished champion of single tax and other reforms is here affectionately portrayed by his wife.

"BIRDS AND MAN"—By W. H. Hudson. Observations on bird life in England by a well-known naturalist and novelist.

"HANDEL"—By Romaine Rolland. A notable study and biography by the author of "Jean Christophe."

"ACROSS THE CONTINENT BY THE LINCOLN HIGHWAY"—By Effie P. Gladding. "From the Pacific to the Atlantic by the Lincoln highway, with California, the Virignias and Maryland thrown in for good measure. The Lincoln highway is already what it is intended to be, a golden road of pleasure and usefulness, fitly dedicated and destined to inspire a great patriotism and to honor a great patriot."

"OUR EASTERN QUESTION"—By T. F. Millard. The last two chapters on America and China and the need of a positive American policy are of special interest.

"THE WAY OF THE CROSS"—By Dorshevitch. "Probably the first piece of Russian war literature translated into English. It is a terribly poignant impression of the fugitives on the road after the great German invasion of Russia in August, 1915."

"THE LIGHTER SIDE OF SCHOOL LIFE"—By Ian Hay. By the author of "The First 100,000."

SOMEWHERE IN RED GAP.

HARRY LEON WILSON, author of "Ruggles of Red Gap," one of last year's best sellers, has become more enamored of Red Gap than he has of Ruggles. Under the title of "Somewhere in Red Gap," he has collected a dozen stories, printed in the Saturday Evening Post, all dealing with Ma Pettingill, "The Mixer," who was one of the most interesting characters in the story of Ruggles. Seated on the veranda of her ranch, Ma regales readers with stories of folk that have lived or hesitated in Red Gap. All the stories have laughs concealed on their persons and they are well worth reading. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

A DELIGHTFUL CHILDREN'S BOOK.

THE best critical test of a storybook for children is to read it to children. This test has been applied to "Hollow Tree Nights and Days," by Albert Bigelow Paine, and the result was highly favorable to the book. By the time it had been read through, the children were clamoring for previous books of the "Hollow Tree" series. One of the best stories in the new book is that of Mr. Possum's homemade automobile. The book is generously illustrated. (Harper).

THE CHURCH ENCHAINED.

THE REV. WILLIAM A. R. GOODWIN, D. D., rector of St. Paul's Church, Rochester, N. Y., thinks that the church has not proved equal to its responsibilities when confronted by the European crisis. He says so in his book, "The Church Enchained." The reason, as he sees it, is suggested in the title. The church is bound, he says, by the chains forged by the narrow definitions and the exalted pride and bigotry of ecclesiasticism, by the chains wrought out of the church's trust in material power, the iron chains of bigotry and the golden chains of luxury and self-indulgence and the love of pleasure and the chains which are unconsciously forged by the habits and neglect and indifference and procrastination.

The book is an earnest plea for union and co-operation of all churches in grappling with world problems. It is an appeal directed primarily to members of the Episcopal fold, but applies as well to the members of other churches. The author is "low church" and liberal and speaks with frankness of the faults of the church enchained. The many chapters are rather disjoined, but through them all runs an earnest purpose to help in loosening the church from its chains. There is an introduction by the Rt. Rev. David H. Greer, Bishop of the Diocese of New York. (E. P. Dutton & Co.)

TALES OF THE STAGE.

UNDER the caption "The Painted Scene," Henry Kitchell Webster, the discoverer of a Broadway in Chicago, has collected a number of his magazine stories of the stage. Webster has made a study of things behind the footlights and writes with a stagey air that rings true. Has it ever occurred to Webster that his short stories are too long drawn out? There seems to be an introduction of about 2000 words to every one of his yarns. He probably got space rates in the magazines, but why was it necessary to get the extraneous words into book form? However, even the lengthy preludes are well written and it does not take much of an effort to arrive at the real kernel of the stories. (Bobbs-Merrill.)

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story

The Daredevil

By MARGARET HEATHER.

REUBEN ROTHCHILD paced the floor of his sumptuous apartment in London and impatiently awaited the arrival of a visitor. From the onyx clock on the mantel to a loosely scrawled note spread out on the great table his eyes shifted alternately. The missive read: "Shall call Oct. 4th, 2 a. m. Greatest find yet. Be liberally prepared. RIGO."

The hour designated was mysterious, the message was mysterious, but Reuben Rothchild was a mysterious man, accustomed to receiving mysterious communications, and midnight visitors to his apartment were not infrequent.

If jewels could talk many of the priceless gems displayed in his shop windows on Bond street might have told strange tales; but they couldn't, and their owner wouldn't. So to the public and brokers with whom he transacted business Reuben Rothchild was a shrewd, clever, honest (as the world goes) jewel connoisseur and merchant.

The name Rigo was not entirely unfamiliar. The recollection of the last deal with this individual caused the thin blood in his veins to tingle and he rubbed the palms of his withered hands softly together.

An almost inaudible rap sounded at the hall entrance; the jeweler hastily admitted a man, closed and locked the door behind him.

The person who entered was of uncertain appearance. There was nothing to distinguish him from the usual laboring type, although a close observer might have noted a small purple scar on the lobe of his left ear. Through either haste or carelessness he had neglected to remove his cap, and the scant gray hair which fringed its edge imparted a shrewd, crafty look to the dark eyes and olive skin.

Reuben Rothchild was the first to speak.

"Well! you are on time at any rate, but stand where you are." His right hand had found his hip pocket and his incredulous eyes scanned the face of his nocturnal guest. "Where did we meet before and what was the nature of our business?"

The other shrugged his shoulders and laughed a mirthless cackle.

"At the Lenox Cafe, five years ago, the pigeon blood ruby, size of a robin's egg, the famous Satan's Fire"—

"Sh! Not so loud! walls have ears; besides it is late. What brings you tonight?"

"A bonanza, sir! One you won't strike again in a thousand years." He moved to the center of the room.

"And your price?"

"Forty thousand pounds."

"You're a fool!"

"Very well, sir, I know another who will think differently when they see it."

"Diamond?"

"Naw! A mate to the other, sir."

"Impossible!"

"True as you're born! Shape, size, weight an' color; they're twins, sir—twins. Fork over the coin an' she's yourn.

As he spoke he drew from an inner pocket a small begrimed chamois bag, which he squeezed, and as the pulp from a grape into the palm of his left hand there fell an oval chunk of living fire.

Reuben Rothchild gave a smothered exclamation of astonishment and delight. He crept forward to the man who stood under the droplight staring aghast at the jewel, which quivered and dyed the moist flesh on which it rested a crimson red. He picked it up cautiously, tenderly. With the acumen of his type he hefted its weight, examined its coloring and texture, then laid it gently down. He moistened his lips with his tongue and once again touched the jewel lightly with the tip of his forefinger.

"Your price was just half for the other," he said slowly, his voice lowered to a stealthy whisper.

"An' that's why I'm askin' double fer this; besides, Lady Cravensdale has promised you a clean one hundred thouhand pound note fer a pair—the one she don't want at no price."

The jeweler winced. "Who told you this?"

"The papers, sir. Me an' the press is great friends."

"Where did it come from?"

"Where sech things always come from."

"But—it may cause me annoyance and bother"—insinuatingly.

"Didn't I sell you the other?"

"You did."

"Were you ever bothered about it?"

"No."

"Then you won't be bothered about this one. The party I got it from would rather you had it, sir, than anyone else in the world, had he known where it was goin'."

"What did he part with it for?"

"The same as I am partin' with it to you—money, money an' silence."

The jeweler reflected. "Make it thirty-five."

"Not a penny less than forty. I can lay my hand on another customer this minute."

"Will tomorrow be time enough for the currency?"

"No, sir! I has to have it right now. Besides, I've got another job to pull off before daylight."

Reuben Rothchild went slowly to a safe in the far corner of the room and returned with a packet of notes. With dogged reluctance he counted into the man's outstretched hand forty £1000 notes, and into his own eager grasp he clutched the coveted jewel.

At sunrise a man leaned over the taffrail of a steamer just leaving Liverpool and watched the fast receding shores of his native land, a shabby man, with nothing to distinguish him from the ordinary laboring type, perhaps, save a tiny purple scar on the lobe of his left ear.

Three hours later, precisely at 9, Reuben Rothchild found his shop in charge of the Prefect of Police. During the night the safe had been cracked, the outer door of the vault lay squarely in the center of an old mattress on the floor, still swathed in a ragged blanket. Drawer after drawer had been ransacked. The jeweler, ignoring the crowd, stared not at the havoc before him. His eyes were riveted on an empty box in the tray of unset gems.

"It is gone, sir! It is gone!" cried the head clerk, following his employer's gaze.

An inscrutable smile twitched the corners of Reuben Rothchild's lips. He turned to the officer in charge. "You will kindly clear the place," he said calmly. "The thieves were evidently frightened off before securing their booty. Nothing is missing. The jewel to which my man refers I carried home with me last night." And he laid the chamois bag containing "Satan's Fire" in the clerk's hand.

STRAW VOTES—VARIOUS PERSONS ARE ELECTED. BY FRUEH.

The Green Warrior

A Sandman story for tonight. By Mrs. F. A. Walker

ONCE upon a time there lived a tribe of Indians on the Western plains near a great rock that stood by a swift running river. These people had been driven out of their homes in the north and were weary wandering to find a place to pitch their tents. So when they came one evening upon the beautiful broad river flowing through the plain and saw the great rock with its broad top the wise man of the tribe declared at once that this must be their future home.

They made houses on the summit of the huge, flat stone, they planted tobacco in the rich land and from the river they caught fish, while the prairie furnished them with plenty of game. They were happy and none happier that little Wild Flower, the daughter of the chief.

Now, in love with this girl was a young Indian of the same tribe, but the old chief did not wish his daughter to marry the young man. The reason was that this young Indian was a cripple in both feet and could do nothing but sit before his tent and make arrows all day. But Wild Flower loved him, yet feared to anger her powerful father by showing it. The cripple's name was Red Deer and people thought that he talked to the Great Spirit, for often he would spend days in singing strange hymns and fashioning an arrow of black wood with a white stone tip.

ONE day a messenger rushed into the tent of the chief and announced that the enemy who had driven them out of the old homes was coming.

"They are coming over the distant hills like clouds of locusts," said the messenger, "and the Green Warrior is leading them."

"We will not wait for them here," said the chief as he rushed from his tent and gave a loud war cry. "I will take my braves and meet them before they have a chance to harm our homes." So it was arranged that all the men, except Red Deer, should go with the chief and fight the enemy at some distance from their rock. So the warriors left with shouts and clashing of their war shields, while Red Deer alone of the men remained at home.

For hours he sat rubbing the black arrow till it shone like a gem. Wild Flower came to his side.

"What is that odd arrow you have finished?" she asked, and the young man replied that it was a magic one which he had been taught by his grandmother to fashion; that it had just been completed today, and that anyone hurt with it would become a plant which they had resembled in life.

"If I can only get a chance at the Green Warrior," said Red Deer, "I would end his life with this and see if he would not be of some use in death—he does enough harm in life."

Glancing toward the east Red Deer caught sight of a great host of red warriors on horses galloping toward the rock.

"Your father has missed the enemy," shouted he. "But I will meet them."

"I can see my father returning, but he is far off yet," exclaimed Wild Flower. "And the Green Warrior will destroy us before we can get aid. I see his green robes waving in the wind and the yellow plume on his war bonnet dancing as his horse leaps this way."

WITHOUT a word Red Deer, grasping his bow and the black arrow, had managed to scramble down the sides of the rock. At the foot he hid behind a thick bush. Across the river swam the foe with the Green Warrior at the head, but just as this leader began to climb the bank Red Deer sent the black arrow swiftly into his heart. The Green Warrior's son rushed out of the water and pulled Red Deer to the bank, throwing him into the stream. The body of the Green Warrior floated by Red Deer and lodged in the foot of the cliff, while Red Deer himself struck out wildly for the shore. Strange to say, he felt his muscles grow strong and his feet pushed out straight into a swimming stroke—the sudden plunge and the exertion had cured his lameness.

As he touched the bank he heard the cries of the chief's braves rushing to meet the enemy. And in 10 minutes every trace of the Green Warrior's men had disappeared in a cloud of dust, lost in the distance. Wild Flower and Red Deer went to the chief to ask that they might marry, and as the father gave his consent he pointed to a strange new plant that stood at the foot of the cliff.

"That is the work of my black arrow!" exclaimed Red Deer. "The Green Warrior has been turned into a useful plant. See the green stalk and the yellow silken tassel hanging out of the ear of corn? My grandfather told me that some day my arrow would bring us great good fortune, so this new plant must be our special care and we will call it Indian corn."

So from the body of the Green Warrior sprang the corn now known over all America.
